RACE TO CUT OFF NAZIS IN CRIMEA

Premier Stalin Announces Victory In Special Order Of Day

ENEMY LOSES MORE THAN 20,000 IN VAIN BATTLE

LONDON, Sunday, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Russian army captured the key city of Melitopol after 11 days of street fighting and swept on southward today through the flat, muddy plains toward the Crimea.

Moscow reports said Soviet motorized columns swung out in pursuit of the Germans in a race to cut off the Crimea at Perekop and Kherson after smashing the last-ditch German stand in Melitopol.

The Germans lost more than 20,000 men in their vain attempt to establish a winter line in the ravaged city and a triumphant Moscow communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, described Nazi losses as "extraordinarily heavy."

The Germans had rushed infantry divisions, tanks and artillery into the city, hoping to halt the Russians, but bitter hand-to-hand fighting forced back the defenders street by street. More than 4,000 Germans were killed in the last day alone while 57 tanks and 18 guns were wrecked. Large

HEAVY ATTACK IS MADE ON KASSEL

British Drop 1,500 Tons Of Explosives, Lose 44 Bombers

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—A great fleet of British four-engined bombers penetrated a heavy screen of fighters and murky weather last night and dropped 1,500 long tons of bombs in an effective attack on the German armament city of Kassel, losing 44 bombers on the mission.

A subsidiary force hit Frankfurt and the small but swift ply-wood Mosquito bombers raided the Cologne area.

The R. A. F.'s losses on the Kassel raid raised the total for the month to 163 in nine major operations, but the air ministry described the blow as highly effective. Returning crews brought back photographs showing huge fires they left burning under a pall of smoke filling the skies for a height of more than three miles.

The Nazis threw up an unusually heavy fighter force to check this latest phase of an air bombardment running through both day and night, but the British were out in what was described as "very great strength" and the tonnage equalled or exceeded the 1,500 long tons dropped the last time the city was hit, on October 3.

The 44 downed planes represented the heaviest loss to the British bomber command since the August 31 raid on Berlin, when 47 aircraft were missing, but the number was under the R. A. F.'s record loss of 58 suffered in the August 23 attack on Berlin.

Still torn by the October 3 pounding by the R. A. F., which left 30 factories damaged or destroyed, Kassel was being pounded last night for the fourteenth time of the war and

LEADERS STRIVE TO STOP MINE STRIKE

(By Associated Press)

Leaders of the United Mine Workers strove last night to get striking Alabama coal miners back to work and avert possible government seizure of mines in the state and punitive action against local unions there.

Called before the war labor board to explain why 20,000 Alabama miners are conducting a wildcat strike in defiance of board orders, the union leadership was warned that the WLB expects production to be resumed by Monday.

Chairman William H. Davis said that otherwise it appeared the board would have to refer the case to the White House—a step which could mean the government would take control of the mines again and invoke sanctions against the union locals for non-compliance with the board's orders.

The operating unions formally rejected a 4-cents-an-hour wage increase recommended by a government emergency board. They had asked a 30 per cent increase and some spokesmen termed the 4-cent award an "insult."

In order to hear the U. M. W. leaders on the Alabama situation, the WLB took time out from consideration of a proposed contract covering mining of coal in Illinois. Members had hoped to act on it during the week and announced they would hold a Sunday session to expedite a decision.

Japanese Near Katika Thrown Back After Pulverizing U. S. Air Blow

Forces Seeking Solid Line Of Escape To Sea Are Blocked

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sunday, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Japanese hopes of reaching the New Guinea coast on the Huon peninsula in strength were blasted Friday by determined attacks delivered by Australian ground troops and American bombers.

These attacks blunted the enemy spearhead and forced him to fall back from the village of Katika westward to a depth of 1,100 yards toward his inland jungle strong positions at Sattelberg.

The Australians, who thus closed the narrow corridor which Japanese earlier in the week had driven to the coast about five miles north of allied-won Finschhafen counted more than 510 enemy dead.

While these units of the Australian Ninth division succeeded in blocking the coastal outlet of escape for considerable enemy forces, American-flown Mitchells swept over the rear areas. They sowed destruction with their bombs and more than 55,000 rounds of 50 caliber machine-gun fire.

This new aerial devastation piled up the toll of enemy dead caused Thursday by a record single day's load of 221 tons dropped by Liberators around Sattelberg on troop concentrations.

The initial success of small elements of Japanese in driving a narrow, five-mile-long corridor from Sattelberg to the coast of the peninsula does not seem to foreshadow a regaining of the offensive by the Japanese in the New Guinea theater.

The coastward drive, now halted, instead indicates the enemy is nearing the southern limits of the New Guinea territory he is willing to abandon without a more determined show of resistance than he displayed before yielding Lae and Salamaua in September.

The direction of the thwarted Japanese coastal drive made it apparent the enemy is not trying to recapture the small port of Finschhafen which the Australians occupied October 2, ten days after they landed from Rear Admiral Daniel Barney's United States navy amphibious craft.

In the air, Australian manned Kittyhawks pounded the Gasmata, New Britain, airdrome of the enemy some

NEW DRIVE FOR SALES TAX SEEN

Likely To Follow Refusal To Increase Income Tax Load

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Creation of new pressure for a retail sales tax is certain, Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the senate finance committee said today, as a result of the house ways and means committee's refusal to increase the individual income tax load.

As the house tax-framing body deferred until next week a decision whether to make any changes in the corporate tax structure, George declared the search for additional revenue apparently is narrowing down to new and increased excise taxes.

The house committee's refusal to boost levies on individual incomes, he told a press conference, "of course creates a new pressure for a sales tax."

"But," he added, "I'm still of the opinion that a sales tax would not be approved by congress over the active opposition of the treasury department."

George said it is apparent that new or increased excise taxes such as have been proposed on tobacco, transportation, candy and liquor, can produce

The dead included two officers and three enlisted men of the army air corps and 15 enlisted men from the parachute troops here.

The army announcement gave no details.

SEPTEMBER ARMS OUTPUT IS EVEN

Some Gains Are Reported But August Level Generally Held

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Arms production, which in August was reported to be getting "its second wind," stayed put in September.

While the heavy bomber output gained 6 per cent, Charles E. Wilson, acting chairman of the war production board, reported tonight that generally munitions manufacture for September "held substantially to the August level," and said the failure to show a percentage gain "indicates more than anything else that we are approaching our production ceiling."

The monthly WPB production report showed a 2 per cent gain in September over August in airplanes and aircraft guns, ammunition and related equipment, on a dollar-value basis. Airplanes alone went up 4 per cent in value of production, although the number of planes produced dropped 7,598, or 14 less than the August total.

Sharing the bright spot with heavy bombers was another critical element in the aircraft program, airborne signal equipment, which also jumped 6 per cent.

Aircraft progress in October was not covered in Wilson's report, but WPB sources said that figures for the first half-month indicated a 5 per cent gain in weight and satisfactory increase in numbers, "heading toward 8,000." These preliminary figures, however, frequently require revision.

"September's performance reemphasizes the difficulty of achieving substantial successive month-to-month increases," Wilson said. "The slack, which permitted sharp gains during 1942, has now been taken up."

Ammunition, which made a poor showing in August, registered a 3 per cent gain in September. An 11 per cent rise was shown in artillery and tank gun ammunition.

NAZIS IN ITALY DIG IN FIRMLY

Thrown Back By Fifth After Fierce Tank-Led Attack

ALLIED AVIATION LENDS STRONG HELP TO TROOPS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Field Marshal General Albert Kesselring's forces, although thrown back by the Fifth army after launching a fierce tank-led counter-attack in the Alife region, dug in firmly today in their new positions on the Massico ridge-Mount Matese line solidly blocking the road to Rome.

The hard counter-attack was one of the sharpest the Germans have put in since their attempt to drive the Fifth army back into the sea four days after landing on the beach at Salerno.

It cost them dearly. A number of Nazi tanks were knocked out by the deadly fire of American artillery, but the fury with which it was launched was an indication of the Germans' determination to hold their new line stubbornly.

The Eighth army also frustrated a counter-attack near Montecilfone and then advanced two miles, taking Lupara, which dominates high ground in central Italy.

An Allied communique detailing yesterday's land developments hinted further action was in progress on the Fifth army's front by saying that the gain made in taking a commanding height in an unidentified area was being "exploited."

The object of the German counter-thrusts was to disrupt Allied offensive actions and the Germans invariably launch them just before they think the Allies are about to deliver a blow.

Allied aviation poured the battle [illegible] to the men on the ground by pressing home numerous attacks against gun positions, troop concentrations and motor transport. Other bombers of the northwest African air force hit rail communications at Grosseto, 90 miles above Rome, and Orvieto, 60 miles north of the capital. The Elevsis airfield near Athens also was hit hard by medium bombers escorted by Lightnings.

The R. A. F. Middle East command also announced that Maritza airfield

REPUBLICANS HIT PRICE ROLLBACK

Charge Program Is Designed To 'Rally Fourth Term Votes'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The administrative-congressional wrangle over subsidies rolled on today with a Republican lawmaker's accusation that the price rollback program is designed to "rally fourth terin votes."

Indications that the administration will reject any attempts at compromise on the subsidy issue were seen in farm bloc legislators in a fresh protest from Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson that proposals to fix prices by legislative enactment would make price control "administratively unworkable."

As congress waited President Roosevelt's special message on subsidies to keep retail prices down, Representative Landis, Republican, Indiana, declared that the country's greatest need is increased production and fair prices.

"An adequate supply of goods," he said in a speech prepared for the radio, "will always adjust the price. Fair prices must replace subsidies. We

OLD REGULARS SELECT MORGAN

Former Governor Earl Long Choice For Lieutenant Governor

(By Associated Press)

Louisiana newspapers today reported that the New Orleans Old Regular organization will support Lewis L. Morgan, Covington attorney, for the January Democratic gubernatorial nomination and that the organization had accepted—after a stormy debate Friday night—former Governor Earl K. Long as its choice for the lieutenant governorship.

Accounts in the New Orleans States and Item and the Shreveport Journal stated, also, that the Old Regulars would not endorse any candidate for state treasurer but had agreed not to support any opponent to A. P. Tugwell, incumbent, who they stated was expected to withdraw from the governor's contest and seek reelection as treasurer.

Both Tugwell and Long, along with nine other candidates had qualified for the gubernatorial post.

At Baton Rouge Tugwell would make no comment on the reported action of the New Orleans organization but said he would go to Shreveport Monday morning to qualify as a candidate for reelection.

Another candidate previously quali-

THINK CHURCHILL TO SHIFT CABINET

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill apparently intends to reshuffle his cabinet along with the introduction in commons of a comprehensive post-war legislative program.

Churchill is expected before the post-war election to capitalize on the country's intense interest in the future, and the expected cabinet changes might serve as the beginning in the creation of a post-war national government, for which he has expressed a desire. The Daily Herald predicted today that the cabinet changes would be made before the opening of the new session of parliament.

It is understood the contemplated legislative program will be intended to satisfy exponents of Sir William H. Beveridge's social security plan and to lay the groundwork for a very large part of Churchill's own extensive program of educational, health, agricultural and industrial reform.

The expected cabinet changes would call for the replacement of Sir Janes Grigg, secretary of state for war, whose curt civil service demeanor is said to have irked some members of parliament, and probably of Sir William Jowitt, minister in charge of post-war planning. The changes are described also as involving the promotion of a number of junior ministers.

Herbert Stanley Morrison, pugnacious, Cockney minister of home affairs and a powerful laborite, may succeed Jowitt with greatly increased authority over the entire field of post war problems.

MARIGNY'S WIFE SHOWING STRAIN

Husband Still Grins Confidently In Prisoner's Dock

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Comely Nancy Oakes De Marigny, a 19-year-old girl torn by the cross-currents of a family tragedy which finds her husband on trial for the murder of her father, began to show the strain of her bitter experience today.

But in the cage-like prisoner's dock of the Bahamas supreme court, Alfred De Marigny still grinned confidently while his attorneys sparred expertly with witnesses summoned to connect him with the slugging and burning last July of Sir Harry Oakes, who owned one of the world's greatest fortunes.

Barred from the courtroom because she will testify later for the husband in whose innocence she has faith, Nancy has had to wait outside with her hopes and fears while the trial which has caught the world's imagination proceeded through the first week of sensations.

Then came a heart-breaking disappointment today, when she hurried to the airport to meet her mother, Lady Eunice Oakes, who flew from the United States to testify next week against the son-in-law she blames for the family's troubles.

Not knowing that Nancy was coming to greet her, Lady Oakes hurried through customs and left by a side door while her redhaired daughter watched for her in the waiting room. Tears were in Nancy's eyes when she learned that her mother already had gone.

Nancy has been distressed by widespread rumors of an estrangement between her and Lady Oakes, and

CIRCUS HANGING STUNT IS FATAL

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Loys (the great) Peters, a 45-year-old circus star who was billed as "The man who hangs himself and lives to tell the tale," performed his last stunt as 5,500 spectators watched his death struggles in hushed silence.

One of the features of the annual firemen's rodeo and thrill circus, Peters climaxed his high trapeze act by leaping from a 70-foot platform with a rope around his neck. The screams of spectators ended abruptly as Peters hit the end of his leap. The rope holding him 20 feet from the floor became taut and Peters twitched slightly, finally becoming motionless.

The silence was broken once by the announcer who boomed out over the loud speaker "He's dazed momentarily." The silence deepened as Peters' dangling body swayed lightly at the end of the rope.

As firemen worked 20 minutes taking Peters' body down, associates said that the secret of his trick had been to reach up and grab the rope at the neck just before he reached the end of the leap.

FLAMES SPREAD FAST ON WATER

Persons Ashore Hear Explosion And See Towering Fire

COAST GUARD CRAFT SENT TO SCENE, RESCUES SOME

PALM BEACH, Fla., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Two blacked-out tankers collided off the Florida coast in the darkness Wednesday night and 88 men perished in the flames which spread from the explosion of one of the vessels laden with thousands of gallons of aviation gasoline.

The navy permitted announcement of the disaster today after investigating salvage possibilities.

Twenty-eight merchant crewmen and members of navy gun crews were saved, most of them leaping overboard as the flames whipped over the decks and spread out over the water.

Persons ashore heard the explosion and saw the towering flames and gave the alarm which sent coast guard craft racing to the scene.

One of the ships, northbound and riding low in the water with the weight of the gasoline, had 43 crewmen aboard, including seven naval gunners, and only seven men survived.

The other tanker, southbound in ballast, was manned by a crew of 73, including 25 gunners, and 21 reached safety. Most of those on deck perished instantly.

Christopher P. Finley, 28, of Miami, third assistant engineer aboard the empty tanker, was at his post at the time of the crash, at 10:50 p.m.

"I knew something terrible had happened," he declared, "but every hand in the engine room stayed at his post, and that saved a lot of lives.

"Two explosions followed immediately. I cut off the engines and rushed topside. Forward and amidships were a holocaust. The forward magazines and gun turrets were exploding. I knew the aft magazines would go any minute. I jumped into the sea off the fantail."

Seaman Joseph S. O'Brien of Indianapolis, a gunner aboard the northbound tanker, was on watch on the deck.

"Suddenly I spotted another ship bearing down from the north," he said. "It appeared to be about 75 yards away. It looked as though it were going to pass us, but as the ship approached I saw it was going to be close.

"I turned and started for a telephone to report to the forward bridge. Before I got to the telephone there was a crash.

"A terrific explosion followed, and I was blown about 10 feet across the deck."

He leaped overboard and managed to swim fast enough to stay clear of the burning oil which spread out over the water.

Coast guard patrol boats which reached the scene within a few minutes circled dangerously close to the blazing vessels to pick up survivors.

Walter Deutsch of Huntington, N. Y., a quartermaster, commanded the first rescue boat to arrive.

"We approached the empty tanker from windward," he said. "Only one man could be seen on deck. He refused to jump until we shouted we

COURT WILL HEAR PLAQUEMINES ROW

POINTE-A-LA-HACHE, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Litigation over occupancy of the Plaquemines sheriff's office is due for another inning in court here Monday when District Judge Albert Estopinal opens hearing on a suit by Dr. Ben R. Slater to recover the office seized from him by Walter J. Blaize and Louisiana state guardsmen two weeks ago.

Slater, parish coroner who occupied the office for six months in defiance of state court rulings and who was removed only after guardsmen invaded the parish and declared martial law in support of a state supreme court ruling, charged in his action "usurpation of office."

Leander H. Perez, district attorney and administration foe, led the fight to retain Slater in office after Blaize had been appointed to the post by Governor Sam Jones.

Perez announced here today that the parish Democratic executive committee also will meet Monday, at Belle Chasse, to consider and rule on contested qualification papers filed by candidates for the party's January primary.

Two candidates, Morris Ansardi, seeking nomination as constable, and Paul Gamiche, who announced for the sheriff's race, said yesterday they had received letters from Perez, as executive committee chairman, questioning their qualifications.

CAPTAIN BAILEY HASN'T SEEN WOMAN FOR MONTHS

Soldier In South Pacific Writes Home; Likes Life Despite Hardships

Captain Stephen J. Bailey, from his station somewhere in the south Pacific, has written back home in interesting manner. His most serious complaint would seem due to the fact that he hasn't seen a woman for six months!

His letter in part is as follows:

"There is not a great deal of additional news that I can give about our activities in New Georgia except to repeat that the boys did a wonderful job and that I am proud to have been with them. I saw a lot of boys come into the army direct from civilian life and saw them do a real soldier job. There is a great deal of satisfaction in that.

"Things were pretty rugged in New Georgia for a while. The terrain was hilly and thickly wooded. Mud was in great abundance and we were wet a good part of the time. The boys didn't get to wash or change their clothes for a month and at night we slept in foxholes. (I got to take off my shoes and to change my socks twice during that period) at times water and rations were short. The Japs threw everything they had at us but never once did I hear a word of complaint from the boys. Spirits were never higher. I didn't see a man hesitate or look back no matter how heavy the fire. They fought and smiled on under these conditions. They had a great thrill when our flag went up over Munda airport, in driving the Japs out of their holes and occupying them themselves. They got a great kick in taking rations from the Japs and eating them when our own were scarce. When we were allowed to go into the ocean for a bath, the men were like school kids in their enjoyment. They forgot their past hardships and dangers. If one asks, they will assure that they had a lot of fun. That is the way it is with the American soldier.

"I am now allowed to tell something of my whereabouts during the past year and a half. In addition to New Zealand and the Fiji islands, I can now mention my acquaintance with Guadalcanal, the Russell Islands, New Georgia and Vella Lavella. With the grace of God, I'll visit the rest of the Solomons and then some before this war is ended.

"I had the great good luck to meet Charlie out here. You can imagine the thrill I got walking down a jungle trail to meet my brother Charlie. He is doing a wonderful job and I am proud of him.

"He was rushed into the front in a hurry but he took to his new life like a duck takes to water and he seems to enjoy it greatly. I hope that being sent to the front so fast he will be sent back to the states before many more months have passed. I surely hope that he gets to go back before my brother Van comes over, for if three of us are over here at one time I fear that would be too much for mother. The infantry does not expect to go back till the war ends but it is not too hard to send air corps and navy personnel back to the states for a rest ever so often. I don't mind staying out here as I am by now pretty much used to it. I rather like the islands only I haven't see a girl in over six months and have little prospects of seeing one in a long time yet.

"I got my captaincy some time in August but only recently learned about it. I give most of the credit to the boys as it is easy to make a good showing when you have the finest group of men to work with. I am proud of the fact that they are as happy as I am over the promotion.

"I'll tell you a little story even when on myself. After going through all the fighting unscathed, I awoke one night to hear a couple of bombs go off and the ack ack bursting. I stumbled over to my foxhole half asleep. I caught my foot in a rut and went headlong into the foxhole. The result: One broken toe. It is all right now but the boys did razz me about it. This goes to show that people are often injured more in a fall down a flight of stairs than in battle."

STORK'S PACE OUTSTRIPS CAR

Racing to get to a local hospital to await the arrival of the stork, the canny bird beat an ambulance of the Dixie Funeral home, the past week, and deposited a bouncing baby girl when the mother, Mrs. Ben Wink, was 10 miles from the city on the Jonesboro highway.

Dr. Irving J. Wolff, attending physician, found upon making a professional call on his patient at her home, 15 miles out on the Jonesboro highway, that removal to a hospital was advisable. He thereupon summoned an ambulance and the patient was started toward Monroe, with the physician driving his car a few paces ahead of the ambulance. But when they had gone barely five miles, the ambulance driver gave the doctor a signal and the conveyance was backed off the highway, with the physician giving professional attention to the case.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Wink and her new daughter were removed to the Wink home and normal conditions once more prevailed.

MORRISON SPEAKS IN THIS SECTION

RUSTON, La., Oct. 23.—(Special)—Speaking in north Louisiana today, Jimmy Morrison's itinerary in his campaign for governor included Farmerville, Ruston, Arcadia and Homer.

He stated that advance indications are highly favorable and that he feels assured that he will be a high man at the polls on January 18.

"You know what a good job I did in Washington," asserted the candidate, "and I will do an even better job as governor of Louisiana. My platform is based on sound, constructive principles and is exactly what the people want. The citizens of this state want a change. They do not want to continue with the present administration and on the other hand they do not want to go backward to any old administration. What they want is new blood, youth, aggressiveness and ability to get the job done. That is why Jimmy Morrison will be your next governor," he stated.

Morrison is scheduled to speak over a state-wide hookup by radio Tuesday from 9:15 p.m. to 9:45 p.m.

BREAKDOWNS IN WAR DIFFEREN

Limit Of Endurance Reached Even By Normal Persons

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—(AP)—mental breakdowns of American diers, largest and costliest item of present losses, are not the same a World War One, and require a h home morale as one antidote.

This report was made to the Asso tion of Military Surgeons of the Un States here today by Dr. Edward Strecker, consultant in psychiatry the secretary of war, the navy the army air forces.

In World War One the common m tal crack-ups were due to the h terias. These brought on blindnes perfectly good eyes, paralysis in tirely healthy legs. They were du shock and fear in battle. In the present war the men under great strain for long peri for they are fighting with complic machinery that both protects them takes more out of them to ope The long-continued worry breaks minds, and in the end more men give way than in the relatively battle situations.

In fact, said Dr. Strecker, fellows who would not have been pected to crack in previous w break in this one now and then. reason seems to be that human durance is reaching its limit, and t is a limit for even a normal per "Increasingly deeper layers of protective veneer are being strip from the human psyche," he explai "and greater depths of horror being uncovered."

To meet the strain of long-contin anxiety, Dr. Strecker said, morale, both at home and in troops, is altogether the best pre tive and remedy.

The men in this war are tre preferably right in the combat instead of being sent home. medicines are rest, plenty of good sedatives and the opportunity, in twilight consciousness, to talk their battle experiences and so ge of the worst fears.

STUDDARD SEEKS A SECOND TERM

Police Juror From Ward One Announces Candidacy For Reelection

Fletcher G. (Red) Studdard, Ward One farmer, yesterday announced his candidacy for re-election as police juror from his ward, subject to the Democratic primary on January 18.

Mr. Studdard has resided in the parish for approximately 20 years. He has maintained varied agricultural interests in Ward One and is considered a successful farmer. He is married and has one child, the family home being located in the vicinity of Lamkin.

During Mr. Studdard's tenure as a member of the Ouachita parish police jury a number of projects have been successfully carried out. The establishment of the present Selman field as a large army base, the extension of drainage projects and the enlargement of the parish's highway program have been accomplished.

"The successful completion of these projects has been the result of the cooperation of all concerned, and no one man was responsible for these achievements," Mr. Studdard said. "However, I am happy to have been a member of the police jury during the years just past wherein our parish has expanded its services to our citizens, and to have contributed my share to the upbuilding of our community."

Mr. Studdard said he would continue to advocate a progressive program for the parish as a whole, and pledged his assistance to his constituents in any matter concerning the advancement of his ward.

Background At Moscow

What will eventuate from the conferences of Secretary of State Hull, Foreign Minister Eden and Foreign Commissar Molotov at Moscow is predictable only in the sense that all three are motivated, with their governments behind them, by a grim determination to defeat Hitler's Germany as soon as possible.

That at the outset they may not agree on how this can be accomplished is understandable. But it is not within reason that differences in ideology or the ghosts of unpleasant relationships in the past be permitted to obstruct that purpose.

Distrust of Russia by Britain and the United States has been a prime objective of Hitler's propaganda machine. Inclination on Russia's part to scrutinize the acts of her major associates in the war can be better understood if it is recalled that British and United States troops were in the field against the Reds in the early days of the Russian revolution. Ever since fear of the French was allayed after Napoleon's retreat from Moscow, England, barring Russian access to warm water, was the great Russian bogie.

Russia, newly industrialized by the three five-year plans and with limitless manpower from her 200,000,000 population, is a vastly greater world figure than ever she was under the czars. With natural resources still unguessed, she finds herself in the same position, relatively, as the British Empire and the United States. To the fulfillment of what should be their rightful destinies nothing is more essential than assurance of world peace for decades to come.

Despite the reiterated insistence by Moscow upon a "second front" in Europe, by which it means a Western Front, there can be no doubt that the United States and Britain are closer to Russia than they were a few months ago. The success of American, British and French arms in sweeping the Axis from Africa, Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica, coupled with the breaking of Italy from the Axis and the actual invasion of her soil, are highly appreciated in Moscow. So is the munificence of American lend-lease contributions to the Soviets. So is the demolition from the air of German cities, war plants and communications.

Important as this gathering can be in the dissolving of suspicions of intent, and perhaps in making possible a closer cooperation in Anglo-American effort with that of the Russians, these three conferees are not the respective heads of their nations. If this conference is followed by a meeting of Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt, it will be an indication that progress toward Allied unity was made.

BATTLE OF TRANSPORT

An omen of Hitler's certain defeat is seen in the definite Allied victory in the battle of transportation to the accompaniment of a steady breaking up of the Nazi system of transport. The Allies are moving the materials of war about as they please. Germany is encountering increasing difficulty in that movement.

That is evident in Russia's growing success in pressing the offensive against the retreating Nazis. Russian armies, following an advance of several hundred miles during the summer, did not halt at the Dnieper for regrouping and repair of transport facilities as Hitler had hoped they would.

Earlier in the war Hitler had the transport advantage because of his central location and shorter lines. Germany could move the equipment of war along a dense railway network and be in position before the Allies could arrive.

Now a combination of ships and bombing planes has given the Allies the advantage. Ships get the equipment to the fighting fronts with little interruption while vetoing Hitler's sea transport. Bombers are wrecking Germany's interior system of transportation. The Russians, partly through Allied aid, have motorized their armies. Their supplies follow the offensive troops closely.

The trend of more transport for the Allies and less for the Nazis is still progressing. The service of supply is so vital in war that a contender can not continue long without top-notch performance in that field. The Germans have lost the battle of transport and are rapidly losing the war.

DOOM OF A GOD

Dr. Sun Fo, president of the legislative branch of the Chungking government, believes the imperial dynasty of Japan can be eliminated after the war and Japan converted into a republic despite the belief that all of the Japanese regard their emperor as a god.

Dr. Fo recalls that for a long epoch in history the Chinese were taught and implicitly believed that their emperor was divine. On October 10, 1911, all of that ended in the revolution which ousted the absolute monarchy and instituted Dr. Sun Yat-Sen's republic. The people of China, says Fo, believed in the divinity of their emperor long before the ancestors of the present Japanese had ever heard of such dogma.

The present "divine" position of the Japanese ruler is the recent creation of the military caste which has instituted a "Son of Heaven" in order to command obedience from all of the Japanese for war purposes.

No revolutionary party has appeared in Japan, Fo concedes. But he believes it is inevitable in the day when defeat is recognized as certain by all Japanese, that such a party will arise and that the disillusioned Japs will spurn their spurious god and join in the institution of popular government.

FIFTH RATE POWER

In support of the thesis that this country, after the war, must get busy and put its merchant marine on a permanent basis, the New York Times cites figures for the last pre-war year, 1938, that make the United States seem distinctly fifth rate.

Disregarding the British, traditionally the world's ocean carriers, it appears that Germany, supposedly handicapped after World War I, carried 58 per cent of its own cargo in its own ships. Italy, a minor leaguer, carried 46 per cent of its own cargoes. Japan, the backward, shipped 70 per cent of its cargo in its own bottoms. But the United States provided Americans ships for only 25 per cent of our foreign trade.

We can't afford to go back to that inferior position.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Time out today, for credit where credit is due—to members of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, now convening in Hollywood. No group of men has contributed more to mass entertainment or to human education. No group has received less recognition.

Given opportunity to compare a picture made 25 years ago with one made today, you might glean some inkling of your debt to these technicians. Lacking that opportunity, you're to be excused for taking for granted the miracles they accomplish.

Yet those men have made modern movies possible. They have perfected the use of miniatures and "process" shots, and thereby enabled Hollywood to spread the world before your gaze. They have developed color photography and solved the problems incidental to its use on the screen. They have worked out the slow-motion techniques that have greatly aided the researches of doctors, naturalists and physicists. They are responsible for the "talkies."

It is inevitable that the spotlight will always be focused on the actors and actresses of the industry, yet there's irony in this situation. As much irony as there is in the fact that the public applauds the man who flies a plane, while forgetting the genius who designed the ship and made his flight possible. I doubt that there's a star in Hollywood who could name the men who have made his own career possible.

Speaking of ironies, I attended the meeting of a Hollywood political group the other evening, not as a partisan, but as an interested sideliner. Present were several producers, writers, directors and players—a perfect cross section of the movie industry. Like most meetings of "arty" people, this one devoted more time to criticism than to construction—and the severest pannings were given to United States statesmen who fought against the war. Now I have no brief for pacificism. On the contrary, I believe that the United States should fight when fighting seems necessary. But I couldn't help chuckling about the inconsistency of the criticism dished out there. Who contributed more to America's particular brand of pacificism than the Hollywood writers and producers who turned out such pictures as "Johnny Got His Gun," "What Price Glory" and "All Quiet on the Western Front?"

The star system breeds a lot of evils. Consider, for instance, the case of Virginia Weidler, just ousted from MGM's contract list. Her dismissal is no reflection on her ability; it's based solely on the fact that she is at an age when she's difficult to cast—sixteen. The studio can find no starring vehicles for Virginia, whose salary, having been increased every six months for the past several years under terms of her starring contract, is now so large that she's too expensive for subordinate roles. So what? Because of a foolish system, MGM feels obliged to drop a very fine young actress, and Virginia may be doomed to idleness during the very years when she should be broadening her experience and winning new fans. It doesn't make sense.

I can think of no foreign import who has thrown away greater opportunities than Jean Gabin. When he arrived, two years ago, the industry did joyous nip-ups in acclaiming him God's No. 1 gift to American fans. Today, as the result of his breeches of agreement and his incessant squawks, he is personna non grata with many of the film colony. In fact, should he ever put into practice his periodic announcement that he is going to join the Free French army, the only tears sure to be shed would flow from the beauteous orbs of Marlene Dietrich, whose interest in M. Gabin has nothing to do with his potential value as a star.

The new Crossley report (a scientific appraisal of radio popularity) gives Bob Hope a rating of 34.5, indicating that about thirty million people listen to his air show every week. This is an all-time high for radio programs so early in the season. It seems to me that the entire show business should find food for thought in that fact. The Hope air show, judged on entertainment quality alone, is not sufficiently improved to warrant such an amazing pick-up in popularity. There can be only one logical reason, and that is the great, unselfish work Bob has done in entertaining service men. That path is paved with public gratitude—and should be trodden by every star in the business.

Vic Mature, here on furlough, has reclaimed the dog he left in Rita Hayworth's care. The more I think about it, the more I believe the pooch's name, "Genius," was poorly chosen. A real canine genius would have bitten Orson Welles.

BY HENRY McLEMORE

By Private Henry McLemore

CAMP BLANDING, Fla.—If you are one of those abnormal creatures who likes to sleep and who likes to sit down, then the army isn't the place for you. The army definitely frowns on these two, shall we say, pastimes. The army doesn't come right out and tell you that sleeping and sitting down are practically forbidden, but it isn't long until it seeps into your consciousness that these two mad, weird civilian habits, have little or no place in army life.

The army gives a recruit a bed, sure, but if you could ever get the army alone in a corner, look it straight in the eye, and ask it why it issued beds to soldiers, honesty would force the army to admit that it wasn't primarily for sleeping purposes. The army gave me a bed, but I would swap it right now for a chocolate malted milk or a cap that fits, because I could get a lot more use out of either of those commodities than I do out of my bed.

Theoretically, the army gives you as many hours to sleep as you ever get as a civilian. But, boy, what it gives you with one hand it takes away with the other. A soldier can go to bed as early as 7:30 if he wants to, but if he can go to sleep with the racket that is going on around him, he'd be a sucker not to get up and go collect his insurance, because he's dead.

Take my own hut, for example. Two bunks from me is a man whose family gave him a cornet when he left for camp, and he is learning to play it. He starts practicing at 8:30 and continues until the lights go out at 9:30. The man has little or no talent as a cornet player. I'm betting even money that five years from now he won't be able to substitute for a seal in a circus playing "My Country 'Tis of Thee." At least six of the youngsters in my hut are jitterbug enthusiasts. So they hum and sing and jitterbug until bed-check time, which is 10:50. Two guys snore, not counting myself. Another fellow writes letters all night with what must be a chisel and a hammer. That fountain pen of his makes so much noise that everyone in the hut can tell what he's writing.

At 4 in the morning the men in the hut who have drawn KP detail are roused by the guard. Do you think he sneaks in in carpet slippers and nudges the KP boys? Hell, no. He walks in on hobnailed boots, after carefully slamming the door, of course, turns on the lights and bellows for his man. This to get one man up out of twenty. The guard is usually lonesome by this time of the morning, so he hangs around and talks with the KP victim while he makes up his bed.

Oh, I forgot something. The bed check is at 10:50. The bed check is made by the non-com in charge of quarters, for the purpose of seeing that all men in the company are accounted for. You've heard of dawn comin' up like thunder out of China across the bay? Well, Kipling's dawn is a mouse with spats compared to the non-com in charge of quarters making the bed check. He too carefully slams the door when he comes in. To keep him from disturbing sleeping soldiers by turning on the lights, the army has equipped him with a portable anti-aircraft searchlight battery. He leans over you and turns this searchlight on your face. The effect is the same as looking into the headlights of a locomotive. If this doesn't wake you up, you'd better start studying Braille.

As for sitting down, it isn't even worth writing about because you just don't. Where the benches are, you are not allowed to sit. Where you are allowed to sit, there are no benches. Now I know where the phrase "The Standing Army" came from.

A colored top kick of a colored regiment here was dissatisfied with the speed with which the men in his company responded when he blew his whistle. So he had this to tell them: "Listen, you soldiers, you. When I blows that whistle. I wants to see a huge, impenetrable cloud of dust come rolling out dem barracks—and when dat dust clears, I wants to see three rows of statues."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 31
Lesson Text: Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:48-51; Mark 7:16-13;John 19:25-27
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

If one bemoans the widespread loss of the sacredness of the Sabbath, which we noted in last week's lesson, and which has meant so much alike to devout Jews and Christians, one must surely bemoan the lessening of the sacredness of the ties and obligations of family life, upon which both Jewish and Christian teachings have laid so much stress.

"Honor thy father and mother," a commandment so sacred to the Jews, through whom the commandmant came, has in innumerable homes today and even in some Jewish homes, become recognized more in the breach than in the observance. It is sad to realize the low state to which many homes and families have fallen, in the lack of love on the part of children toward their parents. It is a tragic condition in our social life, and it constitutes one of our greatest problems.

Who is responsible when such a situation exists in any home? Are parents or children more to blame? It is easy to give and to amplify the command, "Honor thy father and mother," but will children obey the command if parents do not invite honor by showing themselves worthy of it?

There are tragic situations in which parents who have devotedly loved their children and who have done everything possible for them, showing themselves worthy of the deepest gratitude and honor, have nevertheless had the heart-breaking experience of seeing these children grow up and go their selfish ways with no response of love or honor. But there are other situations, in which one may feel less sympathy for the parents, but that are none the less tragic from a religious and social standpoint, in which the parents have set their children a poor example. As a mother's or a father's love has often been the influence that has saved a thoughtless or wayward son or daughter, so a child through persistent affection for a wayward or deficient parent might achieve a redemptive triumph.

As in the matter of the Sabbath, so in this matter of family relations and the honoring of parents, Jesus points the way of common sense and realism. One's supreme obligation is to God. Jesus loved His mother, and His mother loved Him with a depth of devotion that led her to follow Him all the sad way to the Cross. The dramatic fact of her stand by the Cross, on which hung her crucified Son, is one of the most amazing in all history. Probably few have ever grasped the reality of it, and realized that Mary was there in the horror and suffering of that scene and moment. I confess that though I had read the story of it again and again, I never sensed the reality of it, or actually felt the presence of Mary at the Cross until during the first World war I looked Sunday after Sunday from the pulpit into the eyes of mothers whose sons were out in the mud and blood of the battlefields of France and Flanders.

That is what parents and children are going through again today. Yet Mary and Jesus honored God as our common Father, and in their love for each other they never allowed family affection to prevent their doing of God's will. There is a parable in that for fathers and mothers and children in these sad days of stern duty and many crosses.

(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

Post-war utilization of the military aviation radio and electronics devices, such as automatic pilots and altitude indicators for the direction and control of commercial flying, is envisaged by Colonel Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, following a tour of several European theaters of operation to see the work which commercial aircraft are now doing to maintain military supply lines.

All these war-developed, secret weapons of communication have admittedly made aerial combat and transport something fantastically different from anything contemplated a few years ago. Colonel Gorrell can appreciate this difference, perhaps better than almost anyone else in aviation today, for he was chief of air staff for General Pershing in World war I, and he has watched and had a leading part in the development of military and civilian flying since that time.

"Today," says Colonel Gorrell, "great aerial battles are commanded 'long distance' by an officer sitting in a map-covered room hundreds of miles from the scene of the conflict. The development of new devices almost literally permits the commander to follow his own forces into action."

Future Of Airlines

Applying this development to post-war commercial airline operations, Gorrell foresees revolutionized civil air transportation, regulation and operating methods, all in the interests of greater safety and efficiency.

A divisional traffic superintendent in an office in say Omaha, may a few years hence be guiding the landing of an air transport carrying passengers between Wichita and Topeka. The problem of the air traffic dispatcher in many respects will be similar to the problems of the commander now directing bombers over Germany. For the bombing of Germany is nothing more nor less than the transportation of cargo, as speedily and efficiently as possible, under all conditions of weather, over long distances and on split-second schedules.

This is precisely what will be involved in creating tomorrow's civil air transport system. The cargo will be different, and instead of being concentrated in a few channels over enemy territory, it will be spread over the entire world.

Uniform Laws

Colonel Gorrell uses this increased intensity of post-war flying and its real need for every technological aid in communication between ground and plane and the control of planes from the ground to drive home a plea for uniform regulation of air traffic.

Under present law there is nothing to prevent an individual state from regulating air transport movements in the space overlying that state. In fact, some states have actually imposed air codes of their own.

If such local regulation is permitted to grow, consider what it may do to the division air traffic superintendent above referred to, sitting back in Omaha. If he has to consult and comply with Kansas regulations for every landing or takeoff he is directing in Topeka or Wichita, and those regulations differ from the operations over Nebraska or Iowa, his task will be hopelessly complicated, and he will need a lawyer at his elbow at all times.

Pending in congress now is the Lea-Bailey bill which would provide for federal regulation of all air transportation, and which would prevent regulation by the individual states. All aviation interests are backing this provision as a sound foundation for the development of post-war civil air transportation and for adjusting legislative provisions to the tremendous technological developments such as the radio and electronics devices which have been developed during the war.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23.—(AP)—A hunter chanced upon a cache of 350 galions of gasoline buried behind a signboard near the airline highway in nearby Jefferson parish today, and now office of price administration investigators are staging a hunt for its owner or owners.

The gasoline was buried in six metal drums and was only 100 feet from the Louisiana and Arkansas railway tracks. Four empty drums also were in the cache. OPA has stored the fuel for safe keeping.

NEW YORK—Diary: Comes from Daughter Mary that Valpa Fla., where she is now stationed her soldier husband, is one of Edens of the world, that Jackson where she stopped for a day or journey, is a rare city for beauty climate, and that life on the frin an army is heaven, when the you love is there. . . . Well, fine, so we can start worrying something else in a good, workma manner. . . . A letter comes from Sarah Polhemus (spelling may b correct, since the signature is cult to decipher), of Unadilla, N who knew Washington Irving in son. . . . She lived in Irvington Hudson while a very young child Washington Irving, visiting her fa er's home, once kissed her. . . says she will be ninety-four year next March. So she was born in Irving died at the age of 76, in If the incident of the fatherly happened during the last years life, the little girl may have around eight or nine years old. . impression is that he was a handsome man with black hair markable for his age. . . . She re bers that the elder J. P. Morgan to be in Irvington in summer, a William E. Dodge and his brothe Rev. Stuart Dodge. Sally Mc whose family later established famous Masters school, was a play of my correspondent in those h far-off days. . . . But it is wond to know that one may have so t a memory and write so well ninety-four years on this planet Congratulations, gracious lady!

A man was trying to send a gram in Grand Central the other ing, speaking of congratulations "Can't send it," said the atten "Government orders. No congr tions."

"Why?"

"Impeding the war effort."

"Nonsense. This is congratul to a lady who has just had a boy to help fight the next war husband left for induction though he is almost over-age needs bucking up, and her neig and old friends should give word of cheer. If that's impedin war effort, I'm a Burmese spy.

"Sorry; try writing it over."

The man came back, read his gram. "Bureaucrats prevent my ing proper telegram," it said.

"No; can't send it. The gover sends inspectors in here to re our telegrams. They bawl us o sending anything like that, an mand to know why we sent it."

"Well that's what I call imp war effort! Why aren't those insp doing something useful? If the fight, let 'em fight, and if no 'em take the place of someone can fight. Why pay out tax m to keep these snoopers readin private telegrams? If they can do they can open our mail and t that we mustn't send love and to our wives."

The man tried again. "We are brating at our house. Best to and Carl." This time the tel got past the desk, and I hope i delivered.

There must be a tremendous a of wastage of human effort in sort of complicated governm censorship of private messages many inspectors would it tak plow through all the telegrams in this country in a year? CANADA-ORLEANS HIGHWAY PLANNED

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Definite plans for a post-war parkway highway from Canada down the Mississippi valley to New Orleans have been prepared, it was announced yesterday by DeWitt Pyburn, director of the state department of public works, who will represent Louisiana on a 10-state committee scheduled to meet soon in St. Louis to discuss the project.

"The project is something definite—not just another plan," Pyburn said. "It is something we hope to have ready to go when the war ends."

Tentative plans call for federal construction over state-furnished land down the Mississippi valley through Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi east of the river, and Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana on the west.

The route, as distinguished from express highways, probably will cross and recross the river several times, Pyburn said, in order to pass through areas of unusual historical interest or natural beauty. It would be generally as near the river as practical, but in some areas probably would coincide with existing express highways.

On the northern end, the proposed route would tie in, by a link through scenic Canadian areas, with the Alcan highway to Alaska, he said, and a proposed "Blue Ridge" parkway highway from Maine might provide another tie-in, probably at Natchez.

CEILING PRICES ON APPLES ANNOUNCED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Ceiling consumer prices on all grades and varieties of apples in Louisiana, designed to lower average prices approximately two cents a pound effective Friday, were announced today by the district OPA office.

The highest price consumers may be charged in parishes in the "toe" of Louisiana, up to and including Pointe Coupee, St. Martin and Iberia, during October and November, is two pounds for 19 cents.

Ceiling prices in parishes west of Pointe Coupee, St. Martin and Iberia, are two pounds for 10 cents during October and two pounds for 11 cents during November, OPA said.

Ceiling prices to retailers in the "toe" (zone 2) is 3.38 cents per 45-pound box delivered during October and $3.54 during November. In the eastern parishes (zone 3) retailers' ceilings are $3.54 for October and $3.71 for November.

TURKEYS ON WAY TO U. S. SERVICE MEN

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Thanksgiving turkey is on the way, you boys in New Guinea, Italy, Africa, Britain and elsewhere on land or sea.

You're getting a lot of bird—10,000,000 pounds—and not a drumstick or a wishbone from one of the 33,063,000 turkeys being raised in the nation this year goes to a civilian until yours is ready.

It's a big order, getting that much turkey out in time for November 25, and the major portion is being filled in this area. Oregon birds mature earlier than in the other top turkey producing state—Texas, Minnesota, and California.

Processing has become an assembly line operation. The birds are killed and tossed on conveyors that immerse them in scalding water. They're run through machines with rubber fingers that pluck feathers—not all of them, but it's starter.

Scalding water again and they're carried into a drying room, then over a huge vat where a ladle comes up and engulfs each turkey in wax.

When the wax is stripped off—a hand operation—most of the remaining feathers come with it. Hand pickers give each bird the once over for small feathers that might have escaped the wax treatment and the turkeys go into a cold room, where the temperature is about 34 degrees, overnight.

With that, they're ready for packing in light but strong wooden boxes, each taking about 100 pounds of meat. These are placed in cold storage until the army and navy is ready to ship them.

It's been a scramble getting 10,000,000 pounds of turkey ready with every plant short of labor. That wax process has turned the trick. It cuts picking time in half. Packers say that's what will make Thanksgiving dinner on time all over the world.

Volume of underground water in the earth has been estimated at about one-third of the amount in the sea.

THE LITTLE THEATER CHRONICLE

The remainder of the cast of "Rebecca,"—remainder being the term used to designate those members not covered in last Sunday's stint—numbers five.

Before revealing the off stage names, former pursuits, and stage experience of Mickey Merrill's sparkling roster, it should be pointed out that "Rebecca," a thoroughly engrossing play by Daphne DuMaurier, is being presented Tuesday evening at 8:30 to the general public at Northeast Junior College auditorium as the opening feature of the 1943-44 season.

To get back to the cast, there is the unsavory character of Jack Favell, cousin of Rebecca, and he a gambler, blackmailer, adulterer and troublemaker if ever there was one. This individual will be portrayed by Lieutenant Paul Kopolsky, a navigation instructor of Selman Field, who would confide in your writer only to the extent that he has done summer stock theater at and around Rhinebeck, N. Y. This pleasant pursuit occupied his summers from 1938 through 1940. He is a former resident of New York City.

Then there is the estimable and competent Corporal Julyan, a detective, or rather chief constable, who helps along the unraveling of the twisted life of Maxim DeWinter. Captain Adalbert W. Weisbrod plays Julyan, calling upon experience that he gained in Little Theater circles around Philadelphia and Atlantic City in impersonating various Ibsen characters, notably Oswald Alving in "Ghosts" and Thorwald Hjelmar in "The Doll's House." Captain Weisbrod, a former denizen of the City of Brotherly Love, also used to repair regularly to Atlantic City back in 1930 and 1931 to do one act radio plays. He is on the staff of the new Instructors' School (Navigator).

The role of Giles Lacy, a major, if you please, bon vivant brother-in-law of Maxim, has enlisted the talents of Lieutenant James Stanley, a navigation school pilot. Lieutenant Stanley, who hails from Newton, Mass., played the female martyr—her name doesn't come to mind readily, or even unreadily—in "Androcles and the Lion" while a member of the Dramatic Club at Andover. He refused to be typed so early in the game, however, and, as a member of Mask and Gown at Bowdoin college in Maine, designed sets. Last season he came back before the footlights, when he and Martha, his wife, were seen hereabouts as a pair of week end guests in "George Washington Slept Here," and again when he was teamed with Mrs. Stanley as Peter and Phyllis, the juvenile leads in "Kind Lady."

Frank Crawley, manager of Manderley and friend of its owner, Maxim DeWinter, is a sympathetic character throughout, doing everything possible to make the new mistress of Manderley feel welcome and loyally defending his master's interests whenever they appear jeopardized. Lieutenant George Eckel, a former Buffalonian and at present public relations officer of Selman Field, takes the part of Frank. At the Nichols School in his home town, he aspired to the stage but got only as far as the promoter's booth. At Princeton he played the part of a butler in a fantasy put on by the Theater Intime, and took one of the chief parts in a German play by Arthur Schnitzler, the Viennese playwright, having acquired a knowledge of the Teutonic tongue through schooling in Switzerland.

William Tabb, the boatbuilder, who almost upsets the applecart with his report on the boat in which Rebecca went to her death, is played by John Mullins, who was very active in Ouachita Parish High school dramatics, and later became a speech major at Northeast Junior college. In last year's local production of "George Washington," he played Raymond. He also did backstage work and prompted.

CONNER IN STATE TREASURER'S RACE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—H. B. Conner, state treasurer in 1928-32, announced today as a candidate for that post in the January primary election.

Since 1932 Conner has practiced his profession of public accounting, including some current work for the state banking department. He was a state representative from Concordia parish from 1916 to 1928, and for three years was assistant supervisor of public accounts.

Conner said "when elected I shall do as I did when I was state treasurer before—serve all of the people of Louisiana with gratitude to all and with malice to none."

C. S. CAUSEY IS ASKING OFFICE

Becomes Candidate For Re-Election To Police Jury, Ward Three

C. S. Causey, well known Monroe resident and for 23 years and up to the present time owner and operator of a grocery store in the south end, announced Saturday that he will be again a candidate for the Ouachita parish police jury subject to action of the Democratic primary January 18.

Mr. Causey has resided in the parish for 35 years and for the past three and one-half years has served on the police jury as member from Ward three.

He assures that if elected he will serve as faithfully in the future as he has done in the past, giving to the post the best service possible and assuring a fair deal to all.

Incidentally, Mr. Causey's son, Lieutenant A. L. Causey, has been in active service for nearly two years and has participated in nearly all of the battles fought in North Africa.

Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" was taken from life. Huck's real name was Tom Blankenship, of Hannibal, Missouri.

NOTICE TO THE INSURING PUBLIC

A new schedule of Fire Insurance Rates on dwellings has been adopted by the Louisiana Rating and Fire Prevention Bureau and approved by the Louisiana Insurance Commission, which becomes effective as of November 1, 1943. In many instances this new schedule effects a reduction in dwelling rates in Monroe and West Monroe except those dwellings specifically excepted by the schedule provisions.

As to the method of applying the new rates, the following ruling has been received from the Louisiana Insurance Commission:

(1) All changes in rates produced by the new schedule are effective as of November 1, 1943, and are applicable only to new and renewal policies, except as provided in subparagraph (a) below:

(a) Policies written for one year or longer and having an inception date September 1, 1943, or later, may be adjusted to the new rate from inception by endorsement and a return premium allowed.

(2) Existing policies, except as provided in subparagraph (a) above, may not be cancelled on a pro rata basis to take advantage of the new rates.

The undersigned Agents of Ouachita Parish welcome this change in schedule, which will result in the savings of thousands of dollars to property owners in our district, and through this medium wish to advise our many policy holders that endorsements will be issued as promptly as possible for all outstanding policies which are eligible for any reduction and return premiums will be allowed wherever a savings is effected by application of the new rates.

All renewal policies of existing insurance will be written at the new rates.

HEAVY ATTACK

the fifth in six months. It has been hit twice by American Flying Fortresses—on July 28 and on July 30.

Kassel, a city of 200,000, is 70 miles east of the Ruhr and is important for its Henschel locomotive and armament works—one of the largest of its kind in Europe—its Fieseler aircraft plant, where FW-190s are assembled, and as a railway center.

The bombers encountered thick clouds during most of the 340-mile flight to the target, but 40 miles from the objective the weather cleared except for a thick haze. Some of the crews in order to make sure of their targets dived through flares laid by the Germans, despite the danger from fighters lurking above.

Late arrivals among the crews said that the Germans rushed up a strong fighter force, and numerous battles developed, with one group alone shooting down five planes. The communique said simply that "many night fighters were encountered and several were destroyed by our bombers."

'GENERAL' COXEY IS CAMPAIGNING AT 90

MASSILLON, O., Oct. 23.—(AP)—"General" Jacob S. Coxey, who led an army of unemployed to Washington nearly half a century ago, still is campaigning at 90. He announced his candidacy for mayor today on a platform covering the war effort, stray dogs, circuses and drunks.

White-haired and still wearing his high gates-ajar collar, Coxey views tipplers with a kindly eye. He promises they will be escorted home, instead of to jail, if discovered on the streets after over-indulgence.

"The federal and state governments levy a very heavy tax on intoxicating liquors and beverages," he declared in a written campaign statement. "The state has heavy license fees on saloons and taverns. The municipalities are beneficiaries, receiving a share in said taxes and fees."

"General" Coxey, who was elected Massillon mayor 10 years ago as a Republican candidate, won the Democratic nomination this year without opposition.

The United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps was formed in 1870.

BIG OUTPUT OF TRUCKS PLANNED

Nation's Pool Of Heavy Vehicles Dwindles To About 75

Washington, Oct. 23.—(AP)—A huge increase in heavy truck production, based on findings of a critical domestic shortage and the military's conclusion "this is a truck war," is scheduled for 1944.

Despite strict rationing, the nation's pool of heavy trucks for industrial transport has dwindled to about 75 new vehicles.

WPB officials indicated approval of doubling this year's heavy truck program and a large increase in truck production for the home front although it was feared the program might be caught in some of the worst current bottlenecks.

Engines, transmissions, bearings and other components are urgently needed for landing craft, a top-priority item, and for other key elements of the munitions program. Heavy-duty tires are an equal problem.

A huge military program also must be met, but officials indicate they also are ready to allot material for most of the domestic truck program sought by the office of defense transportation —40,000 heavy trucks, 40,000 mediums, and 25,000 truck-trailers next year.

The difficulty is demonstrated by this year's production record. Only about 100 heavy trucks for domestic use will have been turned out in 1943 although the program caleld for 7,500.

The big boost in army requirements stems from warfront experience. Light trucks at first were believed the best answer to military transport, but as early as the north African campaign it became evident that a single10-ton "lorry" was better than five two-tonners. The big ones required less personnel and fewer servicing shops and, more important, did not congest the roads so badly.

On the domestic front, the shortage of lighter trucks for farm and industrial use also is creating official concern. About 75 per cent of all trucks are estimated officially to be in activities in which curtailment would weaken the country's fighting strength.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 3 or more times a night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel old and run down before your time. Functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney and Bladder trouble often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the Kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, backache, or swollen ankles, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has given such joyous, happy relief to so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory. Cystex costs only 35c at druggists.

CALL NATIONWIDE RAIL STRIKE VOTE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP)—A nationwide strike vote among 350,000 members was ordered today by top officials of the five operating railroad unions to point up their demands for substantial wage increases.

General chairmen of the five labor organizations voted unanimously to poll the rank and file on the walkout question after they had decided to reject a pay hike of four cents an hour proposed by an emergency board last month. The workers asked a 30 per cent raise, with a minimum increase of $3 a day, 10 months ago, and they deemed the board's suggested boost an "insult."

Delegates to the joint meeting arranged to appoint three men from each union to prepare and distribute the strike ballots. Officials estimated the results would be known in 20 or 30 days.

Some inkling of the sentiments of members throughout the country was provided by David Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who reported "hundreds and hundreds" had sent messages advocating a strike call.

If the members vote for a strike, a spokesman said, a date will be set and the next move will be up to the government. The government presumably would take all steps necessary to forestall paralysis of the carriers at a time when they are transporting unprecedented loads of war material.

An aviator would break his wrist if he stuck his hand from a plane while traveling 400 miles an hour.

only a small proportion of the $10,500,000,000 in new revenue asked by the administration.

But indicating that the treasury might have underestimated the total federal income under the withholding system of collecting individual income taxes, George said he would not be surprised if the total take amounts to $41,000,000,000 or $42,000,000,000 next fiscal year, provided the current high employment and production rate is maintained.

After struggling for hours with the corporate tax intricacies, the house committeemen showed signs that an attempt will be made to peg the combined normal and surtax rates on corporations at the present 40 per cent maximum level, rather than accept the 50 per cent figure advanced by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

The result remains uncertain. For three and one-half hours today, the committee heard Colin J. Stam, its expert, discuss—as Chairman Dou ton, Democrat, North Carolina, pu —"the ups and downs, the ins outs" of corporation taxes.

Again . . . Friends . . .

I Come to You!

FRANK PALMOS

I DO NOT HAVE THE WORDS to express to the hundreds of people who honored me with their visit to the formal opening of my new and enlarged restaurant Friday all day. Many faces were new to me . . . mingled with the familiar faces who I have known and served for a quarter of a century. It does my heart good to be able to serve you in the way that I have always wanted to.

To those who expressed the kind messages in the special advertising section of the Monroe News-Star—World, to those who sent us beautiful cut flowers, the many telegrams and glad hand shakes, to the city and parish officials who paid us a call and enjoyed our hospitality . . . to you all . . . I am indeed grateful. You have been the means of giving me the opportunity to be your restaurant man. I shall not for one moment shirk my duty . . . but will continue to do all in my power to warrant the faith and confidence you have entrusted in me. To my faithful cook, Ollie Caldwell, who has for the past seven years stuck by me, even when I was so sick, I publicly express my gratitude to him.

You will find Palmer's not only the most modern and up to the minute eating establishment in the twin cities . . . but you will find that this restaurant will bring to you memories and very pleasant ones of the old Metropolitan Cafe who served you for 20 years in the 200 block on DeSiard, operated by Mr. Jimmy Panos and with whom I was connected.

I pause here to say thanks again . . . to the many clergymen who had dinner with us on opening day and who are regular patrons in our restaurant. These men of God come from all faiths. I value their friendship . . . I accept their advice and try to run my place of business on a high plane . . . catering only to the principles set down as the right way of living. I know these ministers are so vital to us and what they stand for. Let's cooperate folks . . . let's get together with God . . . only religion and the sincere kind can help bring peace to this war-torn world.

My wife and my loyal organization join me in extending these thanks . . . and to the many who did not visit us Friday for various reasons of their own, we extend a cordial invitation to you to visit us at any time. We want you to enjoy and use the fine restaurant that we now have for you . . . and we will do everything to make your patronage a satisfaction and joy to yourself.

Thanks, again, friends

quantities of war material were captured and several hundred prisoners taken.

The fall of Melitopol yesterday undetermined the entire German defense strategy in the south. Ahead of the Russians were 135 miles of indefensible steppes leading to the mouth of the Dnieper river.

Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin announced the victory in a special order of the day describing Melitopol, on the Molochna river and the main railway into the Crimea, as "the most vital strategical center of German defenses" on the southern front.

The city "guards the approaches to the Crimea and the lower reaches of the Dnieper," Stalin pointed out in his triumphant announcement, perhaps indicating he intends to send his armies without pause into the Crimean peninsula, where it is estimated a German force of about 500,000 men is entrenched.

Today's victory definitely shattered the German front from Zaporozhe to the Sea of Azov, which Hitler apparently had planned to hold as a continuation of the already-broken Dnieper line.

The triumph also brought a new threat to the large German armies cornered approximately 50 miles to the northwest in the great bend of the Dnieper. Russian armies driving down behind these forces from the north made further progress today.

The Soviet daily communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, reported continuing advances both south and southeast of Kremenchug, where they last were reported but 15 miles from the ore center of Krivoi rog, and south of Pereyaslav, where they began developing a new break-through Friday.

Stalin ordered 20 salvoes fired from 224 cannon in Moscow tonight, an explosive fanfare reserved for the Red army's greatest triumphs. It was the first firing of the Soviet capital's victory guns since the arrival of Foreign Secretaries Cordell Hull and Anthony Eden.

INJURIES FATAL TO ARMY CAPTAIN

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Captain Thomas E. Hebert, 26, medical corps, of Covington, died at 1:10 a. m. today in a clinic at New Roads following a Friday night accident on a highway near Lavonia in which two other persons were injured.

The injured, reported to have been in another car, were listed by a hospital here as Mrs. L. G. Smith, 52, and her son, Lucien Smith, 19, of Montgomery. Their condition was reported as "undetermined."

PEANUTS HALF PICKED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Peanut picking is 50 to 60 per cent completed in the southeastern states, the war food administration announced today. Considerable quantities were reported going to oil mills because of space shortage in shellers' plants and storages.

JAPANESE

135 miles east of the New Guinea jungle front.

Liberators flew more than 2,000 miles round trip to make another of their intermittent strikes at Japan's nickel mining center of Pomelaa, Dutch Celebes.

The Japanese air force made weak appearances. There was a light raid against Allied Finschhafen positions and also against the island of Kiriwina in the Trobriand group north of New Guinea's eastern tip.

The enemy setback at Katika occurred near the point where the Japanese seek to anchor a line on the coast. It thus added to the gravity of the enemy position farther inland at Sattelberg which took the bulk of Thursday's aerial pound, aimed at reinforcements in that dense jungle area.

The Sattelberg Japanese have been seeking, during engagements involving thousands of troops, to cut through elements of the Australian Ninth division and contact their coastal forces.

The latest air raid on Pomelaa was made in daylight, a daring procedure since the Liberators must fly unescorted. Their more than 24 tons of bombs set fire to the leaching plant and smoke from it rose 7,000 feet. Buildings near the jetties also were set ablaze. All the Liberators returned safely.

The Kittyhawks attacking Gasmata exploded supply dump areas and blew up gun positions. In the same sector, light naval craft, presumably P-T boats, sank a small Japanese coastal vessel which was loaded with fuel and ammunition.

For the third straight day, Allied air attention was reported given to the western tip of New Britain which is nearest to MacArthur's newly won positions on New Guinea.

At Borgen bay, where approximately 30 supply barges were blasted in two previous raids, reconnaissance bombers attacked more of these craft.

Continued air support was given Australian troops now engaged in a slow jungle advance along the Ramu valley toward Madang, the next enemy coastal base of importance on beyond Finschhafen. Fighter patrols over main road near Bogadjim, Madang's defense outpost, surprised a column of Japanese trucks and strafed them at low level.

The record Liberator bombardment around Sattelberg was announced in yesterday's communique.

Such a blasting as the 221 tons of bombs that the Liberators poured into Japanese concentrations 15 miles above Finschhafen normally is the signal for another Allied advance.

The Liberators' bomb loads were dumped on a five mile long triangle in the Sattelberg-Wareo area where concentrated Japanese forces made an excellent human target, seldom found in New Guinea jungle warfare. The attack blew up 25 to 28 buildings and in the words of an ace bombardier of the squadron, "just blew that place all to hell."

This was the first heavy Allied bombardment in the area above Allied-held Finschhafen. The Japanese were without either ack-ack or fighter plane protection as the raiders dropped their loads.

In a series of raids extending almost to Madang, another Australian objective on New Guinea, across New Britain and New Ireland down to the Solomons, the Allies acknowledged a loss of only four planes. This brought the week's losses to 14 against probable Japanese losses of 71 up to the time of General Douglas MacArthur's communique yesterday.

Allied reconnaissance planes destroyed or damaged 11 invasion barges, which the Japanese in recent months have used primarily to rescue entrapped troops, in Borgen bay near the tip of New Britain facing the Huon peninsula. This brought the week's barge toll to 41.

must insist that full control of the food program be placed in the hands of a single food administrator."

While Landis charged that the subsidy program was an attempt to draw consumer votes for Mr. Roosevelt in 1944, he added that "bungling bureaucrats" must assume full responsibility for a serious food shortage which he predicted would occur this winter if the administration insists on the price-rollback plan.

Vinson voiced his objection to legislative price-fixing in a letter to Chairman Wagner, Democrat, New York, of the senate banking committee studying a bill to force a 35-cent-a-barrel increase in crude petroleum prices. Present producer prices are about $1.50 a barrel.

Remarking that enactment would open the door for other price-fixing by congress, Vinson declared that such procedure would wreck the administrative machinery for price control. Thomas retorted that Vinson merely was reflecting the president's views and added that he would seek to put through the price increase anyway.

with solemn face she told of a great love for her mother.

The slender wife went to bed before dark last night, feeling unable to join her friends at a planned gathering at the home of Baron and Baroness George Af Trolle. She has foregone daily luncheons at a hotel when she received a report of the morning's court events from Raymond C. Schindler, private detective employed to help try to free De Marigny.

"It caused criticism for me to lunch there," she said, "and criticism hurts."

In the sixth session of the big courtroom drama, the crown's prosecutor drove home his main point of the day with the testimony of a lanky police lieutenant with the burr of Scotland in his voice.

Lieutenant John Douglas told of guarding De Marigny last July 9 while the investigation was in progress, and quoted the accused man as saying at the time:

"Sir Harry, the old ——, should have been killed, anyhow."

Private Leo Barnes (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Barnes of Calhoun, has been in the army overseas 14 months. He left the states August 19, 1942. His ship had a stormy passage being bombed twice but landed safely. He is now counting the days until he will be able to return and promises to have some interesting stories to relate.

ROOSEVELT'S COLD TURNS INTO GRIPPE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The cold which kept President Roosevelt away from his office yesterday developed today into grippe with a slight fever.

Although ordered to stay in his room and not see any callers, the chief executive attended to the day's mail and dictated to a stenographer for a good part of the morning.

Secretary Stephen Early said the president had one degree of fever.

were going to leave. There was a lot of screaming."

The flaming hulls floated slowly northward in the Gulf stream. The empty, less seriously damaged, tanker ran aground. Salvage crews floated the vessel and towed it to port, with the dead still aboard.

The navy said it will be repaired, and will carry war goods again.

The laden tanker drifted almost 20 miles, burning so fiercely that it could not be approached. It struck bottom almost atop the hulk of a freighter sunk by enemy subs early in the war.

No one yet has boarded the ship, but men on rescue craft reported they could see piles of burned bodies.

The masters of both ships, and all except one of the navy commissioned officers assigned to the gun crews, were lost, the navy reported.

Second Assistant Engineer Edward Hethington, 28, of Charleston, aboard the empty tanker, said all lifeboats were burned and fell into the sea.

Emerging from the engine room, he related, "we had to run over a mass of charred bodies which almost blocked the port companionway."

Old Friends on Strange Streets

The Battle Vehicle of Mercy

Doctors, nurses and patients know these vehicles of mercy. They serve on the battle fronts. Night and day, they perform their errands of speed and risk bringing rescue and comfort with them wherever they go.

For Command and Reconnaissance

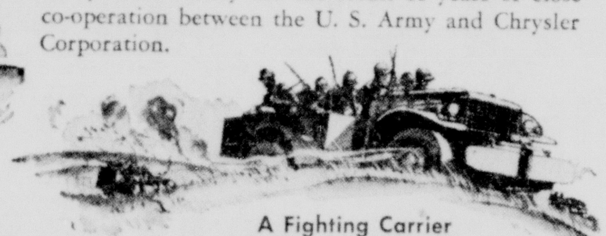

Through its two-way radio equipment, Army officers can locate and report enemy positions; can link up the fighting units of our own forces. This Command Car is low to the ground and hard to see in action.

The "Big Shot"

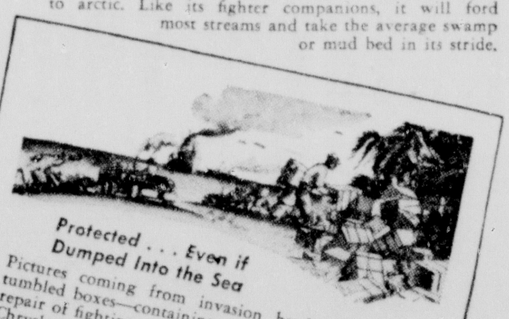

This big job among the fighting trucks carries larger loads of men and weapons. It is an essential mover of heavy guns as well as troop detachments with their personal weapons and supplies. These big fighters are also capable of fast stump-bumping travel across rough and treacherous country. They, too, have demonstrated Dodge dependability as they work, day and night, for victory in actual battle abroad.

OFFICERS and men of the U. S. Army call these the "fighting trucks." They move with the troops. They were built for battle. They are cross-country carriers for arms and men. They are the military team-mates of your friends, the Dodge trucks that haul milk and steel and coal in the U. S. A. They are now in battle action on many fronts. They are the result of years of close co-operation between the U. S. Army and Chrysler Corporation.

A Fighting Carrier of Men and Weapons

With its cargo body and side seats, this fighter truck can also mount guns for attack and defense as it moves with men and munitions into battle. Its big Dodge engine will serve efficiently in every climate from tropics to arctic. Like its fighter companions, it will ford most streams and take the average swamp or mud bed in its stride.

Protected . . . Even if Dumped Into the Sea

Pictures coming from invasion battle areas show tumbled boxes—containing vital parts for battlefield repair of fighting trucks. Repair parts are packed by Chrysler Corporation to protect them against moisture — even if dumped into the sea.

Orphans of the War

America today has countless thousands of "war orphans" . . . "orphans" who are neither fatherless nor motherless.

There are many right here in this community . . . children ranging in age from 6 and 7 to 16 and 17.

They are the children of healthy, vigorous, patriotic Americans – of parents who have either gone in war work or who, because of the manpower shortage, are working longer hours at their regular jobs and so are able to spend less time with their children.

Right here in town, you'll see these children on street corners or roving in gangs . . . unguided, in search of excitement . . . "orphaned" by the unfortunate dislocations which total war makes in everyone's life.

The problems of these "war orphans" can be dealt with – and must be dealt with if we are to avoid a wave of juvenile delinquency. It must be dealt with through various agencies–charged with seeing that these youngsters get sympathetic help and guidance, that they have supervised activities to keep them busy, that they have decent places to go.

The job facing these agencies today is bigger than ever before. That is why they need your help more than ever before. They get such help when you give to your local united campaign, affiliated with the National War Fund.

Your contribution to this worthy cause will cover the three fronts affected by the war – the home front, the battlefront and our fighting Allies. Seventeen agencies, banded together in the National War Fund, have united with our local agencies – so that you need give only once for all of these. That makes the job of collecting the necessary funds simpler. It eliminates needless duplication and expense. It means that more of the money you give can go directly to the purpose for which it's intended.

Because you're being asked to give only once for all these agencies, you are also being asked to give generously. The job is vital. Add up all you would have given to each of the agencies separately, then double the total. It's an important contribution that you can make to victory and a sounder future!

'afe Au Lait And Calas Are Being Served By Hostesses These War Rationed Days

Cafe au lait and calas—made from a century old recipe are being served by Monroe hostesses who are looking rough their cook books these days of war-time rationing tasty and unusual things. Recipes associated with life ring ante-bellum days in Louisiana are again becoming pop-r but none have caused as much comment as calas—sugar ated pancakes made with rice as the main ingredient.

he accompaniment to cafe au lait, rice cakes were sold from earth-are jars on the streets of the nch Quarter in New Orleans as y as 1800. Negro mammies strolled n the streets of early morn—sing-"Belle cala tout chaud."

Monroe hostess, famed for her inality and southern hospitality s the recipe for this century-old cacy, just as it was handed down er as follows:

You take a half cup of rice and e in three cups of boiling water. ook the rice until it is very y. Then, take one cake of yeast dissolve in a half cup of warm er. Pour the yeast mixture into mushy rice mixture which has n allowed to cool. Mix well and w to stand over-night at room perature. In the morning beat e eggs well, adding one-half cup ugar and a cup of flour to the rice the yeast mixture. Beat well and it stand for 15 minutes or longer. a pinch of nutmeg. Drop by onfuls into deep fat and brown. inkle with powdered sugar and e hot."

d southern recipes equally as de-ble as the one for calas will be d in the cook book soon to be lished by the Monroe branch of Junior Charity league. Members he league have been working on book for a year or more and in length of time have collected e of the south's most famous re-s. Housewives who have guarded precious recipes jealously have ded them over to league members publication. It was purely a case "sweet charity" on their part. If recipes as they had to offer ld assure the sale of the cook s then they were quite willing to with them. Time and time again e same hostesses have refused to their treasured recipes even to nds.

e cook book will be off the press first of November and will be ed immediately to those who have ady placed their order. Proceeds n the sale of these books will en-members of the Junior Charity gue to carry on their work at the baby clinic and to supply fresh k for underprivileged children.

Miss Jerry Woodward Weds Herbert Moore

Of affectionate interest to friends in this vicinity is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Jerry Gloria Woodward to Mr. Herbert Garland Moore on Saturday, October 9. The ceremony took place in the home of Rev. R. T. Watson, with members of the immediate family present.

The bride looked lovely in an early fall model of flying blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The bride's attendant was her only sister, Mrs. S. T. Burch. The groom's attendant was Mr. Ben Francis.

The bride is formerly of Pineville, La., and a graduate of Tioga High school.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Moore of this city. He is a graduate of Neville high school and Northeast Junior college and is a member of the S. P. O. fraternity. He is now employed at the Toggery.

Grace Church Junior Guild Will Be Hostesses At Benefit Card Party

"For everything there is a season, a time of love, and a time to hate, a time to laugh and a time to weep, and a time to live."

With the winter season looming up on the social horizon and everyone happily relaxing from the terrific heat of the summer, now most definitely is the time to live. Living means congenial surroundings, gracious hostesses extending courtesies in flower adorned, firelit homes. It means keeping one's ear to the ground listening to the pre-shaping of world events and contributing generously of one's time to the Red Cross. It also means plenty of social activity.

Opening fall activities of women's organizations bring evidence that the various philanthropies are not being overlooked. Quite the busiest group of women at this particular time are members of Grace Church Junior Guild. They have now completed plans for their annual card party at the parish house, on Saturday, October 31, and extend an invitation to the card playing public of this community to attend.

These card parties are now a tradition and are closely linked with the fall social season in Monroe. They bring the card playing public together under the most charming circumstances and always result in a most flattering sum realized for the Guild's pet philanthropies.

The prizes are well worth working for as they usually range from home-made cakes and hand-embroidered tea towels, and bridge sets, to handsome gifts contributed by the merchants of Monroe. The most coveted prize is the one presented to the guest holding the lucky number. The gift is usually donated by one of Monroe's prominent businessmen. Last year the gift was a silver vegetable dish and the year before it was a silver pitcher.

Even though everyone can't win a prize the occasion has much to offer socially. The tea hour, following the card games, attracts feminine guests who like to mingle with old friends many of whom they never see unless they meet on such an occasion as this.

As customary there will be a beautifully appointed tea table with members of the Guild presiding over the silver urns. There will be a variety of confections served at this time and seats arranged for those who like to gather in conversational groups.

In case you haven't already reserved your table for cards you can do so by ringing either Mrs. Flood Madison or Mrs. Wesley Shafto. Mrs. Wilson Ewing is serving as publicity chairman and other members of the Junior Guild are serving on the various committees necessary to assure social and financial success.

A special invitation is extended to wives of men in the armed forces stationed at Selman field.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Guests At Supper Party

Mrs. Walter Reynolds presided over the handsome silver service placed on a low coffee table in the living room of her home where she served her guests demi-tasse following supper. She and Mr. Reynolds entertained sixteen guests complimentary to their son, Mr. M. B. Reynolds, and his charming bride.

Mrs. Reynolds was wearing a black chiffon and lace model with corsage of gardenias and Mrs. Reynolds was wearing a beautiful black crepe dinner gown elaborately trimmed in black sequins. A corsage of gardenias, a gift from her hostess, was worn.

The supper table in the dining room, serviced exclusively in silver had for central decor two wedding rings fashioned of gardenias and white azuratum. Silver trays held molded salads, cold sliced turkey, relishes and numerous other viands.

The cutting of a beautifully embossed, three-tiered wedding cake was an enjoyable feature of the supper hour. The cake was iced in white and surmounted with a spray of crystalized calla lilies.

The place cards, at the individual tables grouped in the dining room and solarium, were unusually artistic. They were miniature bride's books, hand-painted and adorned with clusters of valley lilies and gold wedding rings.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds at this time presented their son and his bride with a complete set of sterling silver in the King Edward pattern.

Mr. and Mrs. Underwood Fourmy and son James have returned from Wappapello Lake, Wappapello, Mo., in the Ozarks, where they have been enjoying a brief vacation.

Her marriage to Lieutenant Davidson took place at South Chapel, Selman field, October 12. Upper center. The reception following the ceremony took place at White Columns, home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McDonald. The bride's attendants, to the left, were "Babs" and "Buttons" McDonald, lovely little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and Miss Dottie White and the bride's sister, Mrs. Russell Kynoch.

Little Theater To Present 'Rebecca' At College Auditorium Tuesday Nigh

Elaborate Sets To Be Constructed For Play

Polly Cole And Lieutenant Paul Sparks Have Leading Roles In Presentation

Curtain rising . . .

Never in the history of the Monroe Little Theater has so much interest revolved around an opening production as this year. The interest, perhaps, lies in the fact that the play selected by the director, Mrs. Mildred Merrill, is highly dramatic.

The public generally is familiar with the story of "Rebecca" as it has been filmed and when first published was the book of the hour.

The curtain on the opening scene of "Rebecca" will rise promptly at 8:30 at Northeast Junior college auditorium Tuesday night. Members of the Little Theater stage crew are now hard at work arranging the sets, lighting effects and obtaining stage properties. The staging of "Rebecca" calls for elaborate sets and all the talent available in Little Theater circles has been summoned for this important work. The ball masque scene alone calls for a winding stairway and beautiful costumes.

Polly Cole, who will play the role of Mrs. Marvin de Winter, needs no introduction to Monroe Little Theater goers, for she has given many charming performances during the past several seasons, in fact, Polly appeared in plays throughout four years of high school and two years at Northeast Junior college, where she majored in speech and each season since in Little Theater plays. In 1940 she played the role of Nellie Fell in "Torch Bearers" and the lead part of Emily in "Our Town" in 1941. She was an active member in the Green club, a Little Theater subsidiary, and participated in a series of radio plays it sponsored for a season or two; as well as playing a leading part in the Junior Charity League Follies for two seasons.

Miss Cole is private secretary to Mr. T. O. Bancroft of the Bancroft Bag factory and Speed Insurance agency. After hours, when not engaged in Little Theater rehearsals, Polly studies voice under the direction of Mrs. Estelle Sanders, director of the First Methodist church choir, of which Polly is saprano soloist. For the past three summers she has accompanied Mrs. Sanders to New York for short courses of study under Messrs. Isaac Van Grove and Paul Althouse, and Madame Louise Homer. In addition, Polly finds time to do social singing for various civic clubs. Her vocal contributions each year to Mrs. Sanders' music recitals and her Christmas and Easter cantatas have been most favorably received.

But to get back to "Rebecca," you'll simply love her portrayal of the second Mrs. de Winter, the schoolgirl Cinderilla who married a prince twice her age, the famed owner of Manderley, one of the most magnificent show places of all England. You will probably feel with her the surprise at his proposal of marriage. Her maxim has told her a great deal of the history of Manderley, but its beauty far surpassed her imagination. The overwhelming impact of the house, with its centuries of culture and breeding which drew sightseers from far and wide to view its galleries and other aspects of former days, the forest of azaleas sloping down to the sea that had drowned Rebecca, for all this Polly portrays realistically the reaction of a sensitive girl awakened by the awe and dawning pride of possession.

Lieutenant Paul E. Sparks, tactical officer at Selman Pre-Flight school and former public school principal of Louisville, Ky., will play the masculine lead, Maximilian de Winter, owner of Manderley, although new to Little Theater audiences Lieutenant Sparks was prominently identified with dramatics at Morehead State Teacher's college, Morehead, Ky., where he received his bachelor's degree after having taken the first two years of his college training at the University of Akron in Ohio. His Master's degree was earned at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., after locating in Louisville, Ky. He sang with the Louisville Civic chorus during the seasons of 1939 and 1940.

Delegates Named By Welcome Branch Club

The Welcome Branch Book club met Wednesday afternoon at the Monroe Recreation center for their fourth meeting of the club year. Mrs. J. R. White and Mrs. F. H. Peterson served as hostesses on this occasion.

Mrs. W. E. Sandel, vice-president, presided over a short business meeting, at which time reports of officers and committees were given. Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. Paul T. Wright and Mrs. Zell Smith were named as captains of groups to take part in the War Chest campaign which is now in progress.

Mrs. F. H. Peterson, chairman of nursing, named committees to complete the plans for the annual benefit card party to be held November 10 at the Monroe Recreation center for the purpose of raising funds for the Welcome Branch Book club student nurse scholarship.

Delegates and their alternates were elected to attend the annual state convention to be held in Shreveport, November 2 and 3. Delegates are Mrs. T. H. Scott, alternate Mrs. J. Norman Coon; Mrs. Paul T. Wright, alternate Mrs. S. B. Archibald; and Mrs. H. V. Collins, alternate Mrs. J. T. Eubank.

Members were urged to go as a group on Thursday afternoon to the nearest Red Cross meeting place and help make surgical dressings.

The program for the afternoon was presented by the program chairman, Mrs. Paul T. Wright.

Mrs. Dean Selig played Sonta Quasi Una Fantasia op 27, No. 2, Moon Light Sonata by Ludwig Van Beethoven.

A very interesting and instructive forum on parliamentary law was given by Mrs. F. H. Peterson, Mrs. H. V. Collins and Mrs. J. R. White. Among the questions asked and answered were: "Is it necessary for the presiding officer to ask if there is any unfinished buisness? How should a motion be presented? Why table a motion and how to take a motion off the table? What is the difference between a motion to reconsider and a motion to rescind? Explain official ethics and ethics of club members."

The principles of parliamentary law are: justice to all, courtesy to all, one thing at a time, the rule of the majority, and the rights of the minority. These principles will be found in all parliamentary rules.

Members attending were: Mesdames S. B. Archibald, H. D. Cleaver, H. V. Collins, J. Norman Coon, F. W. Dawson, A. R. Doughty, J. T. Eubank, V. S. Garnett, R. H. Gibson, E. E. Lawson, C. D. Mrs. Florent Henry Hammond, formerly Miss Regina Ching, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Ching of Mobile, Ala., whose marriage took place in New Orleans where the young couple are making their home. Mr. Hammond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Florent Hammonds of this city.

Purely Personal

Interesting news continues to trickle in from Washington where quite a number of Monroe people are residing for the duration. They get together at regular intervals to discuss the good old days and events of interest back home.

Life has been exceptionally gay and pleasant for this group since Congressman and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie took up residence in Washington. Mrs. McKenzie has entree to places of interest where the average citizen is barred but she manages to obtain invitations for her Monroe friends whenever possible. Last week she invited Mrs. George Snellings, Mrs. Romaine Peters, Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Miss Rhoda Kellogg and Mrs. Benton Holt, who is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, to attend a tea given by the congressional wives for Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt in the Coolidge auditorium, library of congress. Mrs. Roosevelt at this time talked on the subject of her recent trip to the Pacific. The guests of honor were the ladies of the senate Red Cross unit.

It is nice to see lights streaming once again from the Bridger Thornhill home on St. John Drive. It has been dark ever since Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Thornhill have been residing at army posts in various parts of the country. Lieutenant Colonel Thornhill is scheduled for overseas duty so Mrs. Thornhill returned to Monroe last week and immediately picked up the threads dropped so hastily when war was declared. En route home Mrs. Thornhill spent several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Frank Gordon and Mr. Gordon in Marion, Ala.

The advancing years have no terror for those who are remembered by old friends on each anniversary with gracious compliments.

Mr. G. B. Cooley has had many courtesies bestowed upon him on his natal day but none were more beautifully planned or surrounded with more sentiment than Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Harrington's compliment last Thursday night at their home on Riverside.

Old friends made up this congenial company of guests who were privileged to wish Mr. Cooley "happy birthday" and to enjoy the sumptuous supper served buffet style following an evening of cards.

When Mrs. Monte Cone, the former Eleanor Faulk, talked on the subject of "China" before members of the Fort Miro chapter D. A. R. she had on display several beautiful pieces of jewelry with Chinese inscriptions, a gorgeous Chinese robe and a collection of bronze statues brought home from China when she returned from a world tour.

Mrs. Cone told D. A. R. members of the conditions prevailing in China today. She spoke at length on the opium trade carried on by Japanese and of the famine and pestilence stalking the land. She pictured life at its best in China before the war and compared it with the China of today.

Mrs. Paul Fudckar keeps her beautiful home on Forsythe avenue in readiness for her occasional visits. She is making her home in Louisville, Ky., with her son, Paul Fudickar, Jr., who is with the armed forces, but journeys back to Monroe from time to time to see that her home is always in readiness for the entertainment of friends. Her recent visit was marked by numerous social affairs planned by friends and several in her own home where hospitality of a very special brand is extended friends.

Mrs. Fudickar has a special flair for entertaining and her home, spacious and comfortable, in times past has been the scene of many outstanding affairs. Her open house on Christmas day has been for many years a bright spot on the Yuletide calendar and attracted friends of every age. The food served by Mrs. Fudickar is always out of the ordinary. She is especially famed for her fruit cake and other viands made from recipes she never shared with others. They are here treasured possessions and have placed her in a special niche reserved for the perfect hostess.

Mrs. Stanley Reid has just returned from Chicago where she attended the convention of the National Advertising association. Mrs. Reid, who knows twenty-five years' worth about the advertising business, gained a comprehensive picture during the convention, of the national advertising business which probably exerts a greater influence on more lives than any other American business—not excepting the motion picture industry.

Mrs. Reid, advertising manager of the News-Star—World Publishing company, could give words of counsel which are pure gold for youngsters who contemplate advertising as a career. She says that those who refer to it as the "advertising game" are guilty of gross misconception.

Those whose knowledge of advertising is limited to reading newspapers and magazines would thrill to Mrs. Reid's stories of the problems involved in the preparation of what they see advertised in the daily papers.

Welcome Branch Club Plans Benefit Party

Every member of the Welcome Branch Book club is now busily engaged in perfecting plans for their second annual benefit card party to to take place November 10 at the Monroe Recreation center on South Grand street.

One of the club's philanthropies, a student nurse scholarship, is made possible by the funds derived from the benefit card party. The first affair, last year, was a great success, financially and socially, and plans are now being made to make the second event equally as enjoyable if not more so, than the initial one.

This scholarship makes it possible for worthy young women to enter the field of nursing who otherwise would be financially unable. One of the greatest needs on the battlefront and the homefront today is the trained nurse. A great shortage of nurses has been reported.

Those who attend the card party and purchase a ticket for a nominal sum are contributing toward one of the most worthwhile projects club women of Monroe are engaged in today.

Mrs. F. H. Peterson, general chairman of nursing, has named the following committee chairmen of the card party: Finance, Mrs. George Phebus; prizes, Mrs. J. T. Eubank; tables, Mrs. A. R. Doughty; refreshments, Mrs. S. B. Archibald; music, Mrs. E. E. Lawson; publicity, Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

The production, which calls for a cast and chorus of several hundreds, will be a joint campus and community project and service men at both the university and Harding field are being invited to participate. It is set tentatively for December 18 and 19.

The pageant was written by Miss Rockwell and first produced by her in 1939 at the University of Wisconsin where she was director of the bureau of dramatic activities for 13 years before coming to L. S. U. at the beginning of the present term. A number of university divisions will cooperate in the production, including the school of music, the department of speech and the dance center.

The bureau of dramatic activities was organized within the university's general extension division in 1933 under Mrs. Evelyn Kent Hale, L. S. U. speech graduate who studied for the master's degree under Miss Rockwell at Wisconsin. Mrs. Hale established the drama festival which became an annual summer event at the university and was instrumental in the establishment of the Louisiana Non-Professional Theater conference, an organization of community and college little theaters in the state. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. James Watson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore the traditional white satin wedding gown trimmed in heirloom lace. The long, full, skirt ended in a court train. Heir veil of lace and illusion was caught to the hair with a coronet of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white bride's roses and orchids.

The bride observed all the traditions and for something old she carried her mother's heirloom rose point lace handkerchief. Her only ornament was the bridegroom's gift, a string of exquisite pearls.

The kiss bestowed upon the bride by her father before he gave her away and by the bridegroom following the ceremony, was a sentimental feature of the ceremony.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the assembly room of the church where the beautifully embossed, three-tiered wedding cake surmounted with figurines of bride and bridegroom was cut before the young couple departed on their honeymoon in New Orleans where they were guests at the St. Charles hotel.

Mammoth crystal punch bowls placed at either end of the lace covered candlelit table, were presided over by Mrs. Sidney Stroud, Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. T. G. Gallagher.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for an advanced fall model of light weight black wool and a corsage of orchids from her wedding bouquet.

A few intimate friends were invited to the Higginbotham home following the reception, to view the handsome wedding gifts. On display was a complete set of sterling in the Georgian pattern and a set of Haviland in the Pemberton pattern. A full set of crystal, numerous bric-a-brac and objet d' art were noted in the collection.

Junior Literary Club Of Mangham Has Meet

The Mangham Junior Literary club met Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Dow Case with Mrs. Adams Childress co-hostess. The living and dining rooms were colorfully decorated with jack-o-lanterns, candles, autumn leaves, and flowers, reminiscent of the Halloween season.

The following new members enjoyed a delectable supper served at tables centered with jack-o-lanterns, set in the midst of autumn leaves and pomgranites:

Mrs. D. J. Armstrong, Miss Mary Elizabeth Boughton, Mrs. Cecil Burns, Miss Olive Calwell, Miss Thelmerline Jones and Miss Jennie Mae Sheffield; two re-instated members: Mrs. Bob Bell and Mrs. C. Q. Blackwell; two guests: Mrs. B. N. Hixon and Mrs. M. K. McConnell; and the regular members: Miss Bessie Noble, Mrs. Felix Boughton, Mrs. Bennie Boughton, Mrs. Dow Case, Mrs. Adams Childress, Miss Ola Cooper, Miss Mary Elizabeth Hicks, Mrs. Theo Jones, Miss Ada Preston and Miss Barbara Nan Corry.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Bessie Noble. During the business session, a donation was voted to be applied on the Fifth district nursing scholarship. Miss Noble, the president, was elected to represent the club at the state convention which is to be held in Shreveport on November 2 and 3.

The club collect was read by Mrs. Theo Jones. Each member answered the roll by giving the name of a famous Indian or Indian tribe.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Hicks, leader of the program, introduced Mrs. B. N. Hixon, who set the spirit of the theme "Indians," by playing Locke's "The Attack of the Redskins" on the piano. This piano rendition placed each one in a responsive mood for the very interesting "Indian Legends" taken from "Dark Circle of Branches" by Armer and told by Mrs. M. K. McConnell. A prelude to Mrs. Cecil Burns' singing of "The Indian Love Call," was a brief discussion of Indian courting customs. Mrs. Burns was accompanied by Mrs. Hixon at the piano. Mrs. Felix Boughton gave a most informative and interesting talk on "Indian Craft." Her information was chosen from materials gathered by Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, past president of the General Federation of Women's club and author of Indian Music Programs. Mrs. Boughton concluded her talk with reading the following club collect used by the Indian's Woman club at Tulsa, Oklahoma:

Let us be wise, in wisdom ever growing,
Steadfast and firm, the needful things to do;
Walk calm, serene, whatever winds be blowing;
Attain the hights yet touch the lowly, too.
Let us be true, sincere in word, in thought, in action;
Free from all pettiness of soul and mind;
And fair, devoid of prejudice or faction.
Let us be wholly just, supremely kind.
We, pride of race, would cherish veneration
For ancient knowledge, wisdom, legends, lore;
Would throw the torch, each future generation
To grasp and pass, as in the days of yore.
We would hold aloft the banners of the Tribesmen,
Lest trailing they be trampled in the mire;
Signal, "Up Ye Peace Chiefs War Chiefs!" to the Clansmen;
"Sunset! Come Twilight! Renew your Council Fire!"

The bridegroom was attended by the bride's brother-in-law, Corporal W. W. Hinson of Selman field.

Youth Work Stressed By Sherrouse P.-T. A.

J. R. Plaisance, Chief Probation At L. T. I., Explains Work Of Institute

Parent-Teacher groups draw together because of their love for children and because they have learned to appreciate the strength that lies in unity of purpose and coordination of effort, are now meeting regularly and continually planning ways and means for safeguarding children. They must be nourished and sheltered, and protected so that even in the stress of war production they will be strong to carry forward a just and lasting peace.

Members of the Parent-Teacher associations have faith in the children of the New World—faith that if our generation does its part now, they will renew the living principles in our common life and make the most of them.

One group of men and women in particular, members of the Sherrouse P.-T. A., are endeavoring to make this year stand apart from all others. They are endeavoring to make "America strong by making Americans stronger."

A most successful meeting of the Sherrouse P.-T. A. was held Wednesday night. Fortunately for those who endeavor to make P.-T. A. meetings a success, the night meetings can always be counted on to bring out the parents en masse. The auditorium was packed and the program presented was exceptionally interesting.

Miss Eloise Cann introduced the guest speaker, Mr. J. R. Plaisance, chief probation and parole officer of L. T. I. His talk was based on "Presenting L. T. I. to you as we look at it." He stated that among the changes made since Mr. Armstrong took charge, are the establishment of a military school and the abolishment of corporal punishment. Records show that 75 per cent of the boys committed to L. T. I. are not committed for any offense, but due to family conditions—background, etc. Before these boys are released from L. T. I., home investigations are made through the public welfare office and if found it advisable for them not to return home L. T. I. finds jobs for them. A cordial invitation to the public to visit L. T. I. was extended by Mr. Plaisance.

Mr. O. H. Veran, recreation director, of L. T. I. gave a short talk discussing the athletics now in progress there. He also stated a vocational school is held which gives the boys who desire to learn a trade the opportunity.

The national P.-T. A. president's message was given by Mrs. Guy DuPriest. "Education—For What?" In every community in the land the biggest business is the school system. We are all stockholders in this vast enterprise, which has a plant valuation of about $12,000,000,000 and has an enrollment of approximately 30,000,000 children and young people.

Once we believed that education would automatically produce men of democratic ideals. It can do so. But we are shown that this is not necessarily true. Education in some countries has produced children and youth who are militant and brutal, distorted facts had been drilled into plastic minds, causing a fever of racial hatred and intolerance. We must have education, but the sort of education we should have is one of the most important questions in the world today. Tomorrow depends on the answer. Let us ask ourselves and our schools some pertinent questions: Do we have adequate educational opportunities? Is what is taught in our schools as well adapted to the needs of the times as is possible? Will it produce men and women who are free in mind and spirit? Will it make them responsible citizens, good and understanding parents? How can we preserve fundamental values without ignoring worthwhile new ideas? How can education look ahead to the years of peace? All these questions, and others, must be answered and answered fully if we are ever to arrive at the threshold of a better world. Are we truly educating our children? For what?

Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Sherrouse P.-T. A. president, extended a special welcome to all the new members of the P.-T. A. She stated many of you are young; your children are attending school for the first time. You are aware that the welfare of your children depends on the welfare of all the children in the school and in the community. Join in the thinking and the work of your P.-T. A. You are needed. Volunteer your services.

Following a brief business session, refreshments were served by Mrs. E. L. Magnon, hospitality chairman, assisted by Mrs. Guy DuPriest and Mrs. A. G. Bagwell.

BOOKS FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Leading new fiction at the libraries in Monroe and West Monroe are: "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," Betty Smith; "So Little Time," John Marquand; "Penhallow," Heyer; "None But the Lonely Heart," Llewellyn; "Survival," Bottome; "I Am Thinking of My Darling," McHugh; "But Gently Day," Robert Nathan; "The Covenant," Brigid Knight; "The Interpreter," Philip Gibbs; "The Incorruptible," Coryn; "Equinox," Allan Seager; "Daylight on Saturday," Priestley; "The Apostle," Asch; "O River Remember," Martha Ostenso; "Golden Grain," Elizabeth Corbett; "Red Raskall," Clark McMeekin; "The Mothers," Vardis Fisher; "Tambourine, Trumpet and Drum," Sheila Kaye-Smith; and "Thunderhead," Mary O'Hara.

In "Thunderhead" by Mary O'Hara, thousands of readers of "My Friend Flicka" will find this a glowing story of the same family group, and of a magnificent horse which answered the call of the wild.

Bellamy Patridge's new book "Excuse My Dust" is full of the humor and salty anecdotes characteristic of the first two books in the trilogy—"Country Lawyer" and "Big Family." "Excuse My Dust" gives a delightful picture of the days of "Get out and get under" when the monkey-wrench was as essential to travel as a tank full of gas.

An outstanding biography recently added to the collection is "Judah P. Benjamin" by Robert D. Meade. Benjamine was a Confederate statesman who was born into a Spanish-Jewish family in the West Indies and later sought his fortune in New Orleans. Here he had a distinguished career as a lawyer and political figure, rising to the position as leader of the American bar and one of the ranking southern members of the United States senate. After the Civil War he made his way to England where he carved out a new career for himself as an English barrister.

Intriguing new tales of spies, detectives and mysteries available at the libraries are: "Case of the Drowsy Mosquito," Gardner; "The Blackbirder," Dorothy Hughes; "Seven Sins," Sax Rohmer; "Cats Prowl at Night," A. A. Fair; "Without Orders," Albrand; "O As in Omen," Lawrence Treat; "Wall of Eyes," Margaret Miller; "Pink Umbrella," Frances Crane; "Sound of Revelry," Cohen; "Female of the Species," Ellery Queen; "The Body Fell on Berlin," Laken, and "The Woman in Red," Anthony Gilbert.

eaders Clique Hears Talk By Mrs. Albright

ne And The War' Subject Of Address To Members At Mrs. Morgan's Home

The members of the Readers Clique met Thursday after- for their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. G. L. Mor- with Mrs. Russell Cook as hostess.

club collect was read in unison opening of the meeting, which resided over by the president, Henry Loeb. In the absence of cretary, the roll was called and inutes of the previous meeting read by Mrs. Sidney Gill. Dur- e usual business meeting, the for work on the Community drive were made and the project e club outlined, which will be ross work and work with the e Recreation center. A unique bearing the name of each mem- d the number of hours required week for the project, was dis- . It was voted at this time to 5.00 to the United War Fund ommunity Chest.

Clay Albright gave a paper on Home and the War" from the ial Parent-Teacher magazine, id in part:

r reaches out to touch every of life in a nation. But the home is the group first touched and deeply involved emotionally. sks the home to give up that precious heritage, its sons. For ture security of the world, war he family to give up its own iate security. We must be far- to understand the wisdom and ess these demands. We who have been reared in freedom and democracy do not enjoy war, but today we understand that we must wage it before we can again enjoy peace.

"If the family is the group most vitally affected by war, it is also the group that gives most generously and cheerfully. Today parents are asking: 'What can we best do to serve our country in this time of crisis? What effort on our part is needed to bring this war to the speediest and most successful conclusion?'

The answer to this may range all the way from the sacrifice of sending a son into the service to the conservation of waste paper or the collecting of tinfoil. Each family answers the question in its own way. The degree of enthusiasm and endeavor that each family brings to the service of our country may materially influence the length of the war. There are dozens of ways in which families may respond to the demands of our times.

"Instead of investing in fluctuating and uncertain markets, parents are putting what they can save into government bonds, both as a patriotic expression and as a safe investment. This is an excellent moment to teach children thrift as well as trust in their government by encourging them to buy saving stamps rather than candy bars or gum. This, year instead of Christmas cards, some families gave government savings stamps books with one or two stamps for a starter.

Thrift is a popular virtue in time of war, and we need not wait until we are rationed on clothing or food to begin to practice it. Already the family car has become something precious to be nursed slowly and carefully to save our tires. Perhaps this will not be such a hardship as at first it may seem. Slow and careful driving will decrease the shameful number of casualties caused every year by reckless driving. We deplore the loss of life caused by war. Can we not do something to offset this war loss by making civil life safer on our home-town streets?

"I am convinced that we shall soon find members of families drawing closer together. For one thing, we shall be drawn together by simpler living. The family that had a servant last year may be without one now. The mother of such a family has a golden opportunity to bring her group closer together in the healthy companionship of shared activities and responsibilities. If she will, she can make each member of the family feel the importance of his or her personal contribution; and even the son who is away at training camp or across the seas may be made to feel more closely and warmly a part of the family group than he did before a common danger threatened them.

"War has brought us the necessity of taking stock of our life. As though we had an old ship to cleanse of barnacles for a new service, we can scrape away the unnecessary and unimportant activities. In place of the meaningless things, we are giving the great opportunity of service to others. The Red Cross offers such an opportunity to every member of the family, and there are the Parent-Teacher association and other organizations through which the greatest and the least of us may find an avenue of proud usefulness.

"One great responsibility rests entirely with parents—the responsibility of keeping level heads and maintaining at least a semblance of calm and normal family life. We do not know how long the war will last or in what condition the world will be when it is over. We know only that the difficult task of making a better future will be the responsibility of our children. If we allow our homes to be dominated by the agitated voices of radio commentators from morning to night, or if we allow our own fears and distresses to destroy family security, we shall rear nervous and unhappy children for a world that will have great need of strong, calm men and women.

"The schools may explain to the children the ideology and the necessity of the war; but if at home they meet only fear, disloyalty, and dissatisfaction with war's material aspects the work of the schools will be useless. After this war we do not want a generation of embittered young people who scoff at ideals. We shall have great need of builders who are clear-sighted but who are inspired and strengthened by hope. A nation can receive no finer gift after a period of crisis and war than a generation of calm and fearless citizens who have learned from gallant parents how to be brave in the face of disaster.

"Let us appraise ourselves often and conscientiously that we may not fail our children in this time of crisis."

WATCH YOURSELF GO BY
Just stand aside and watch yourself go by,
Think of yourself as "He" instead of "I."
Pick flaws; find fault; forget the man in you,
And strive to make your estimate ring true.
The faults of others then, will dwarf and shrink,
Love's chain grows stronger by one mighty link,
When you as "He" as substitute for "I"
Have stood aside and watched yourself go by.

Garfield, O'Hara In Fine Cast

Suspenseful Spy-Mystery Picture Based On Best Selling Book

"THE FALLEN SPARROW," an action-packed and suspenseful big spy-mystery movie based on the best-seller of the same name by Dorothy B. Hughes, brings Maureen O'Hara and John Garfield together for the first time in co-starring roles. Their parts are peculiarly suited to their outstanding talents. It opens at the Paramount Monday.

Garfield has played some of the screen's greatest "hard guy" roles, but he was never tougher nor more realistic than as the young American adventurer who returns from civil war, prison and torture in Spain to match wits with Axis agents in his own New York City and in the midst of his circle of well-to-do friends. His love-making to three beautiful women particularly strikes a new note.

Not even as a villain has he or any other screen smoothie succeeded in putting over such hardboiled, ruthless romancing, a quality which makes his love affairs in the picture with Miss O'Hara, Martha O'Driscoll and Patricia Morison strikingly different.

This is better understood when it is explained that he suspects all three women of being agents of his deadly foes. The latter have despaired of torturing him until he would reveal a secret the Fascists want, and which they are now trying to obtain by subtler means. He is out to avenge not only his own wrongs, but the murder of a friend at enemy agents' hands.

In New York he faces unseen peril, for his foes are hiding among the horde of refugees that have been taken to the bosom of his acquaintances there. They all seem sinister at first, but gradually his detective work and turning of the feminine agents to help, willingly or unwittingly, in his own cause reveals the real agents and begins to make their plot against him clear.

Another friend is killed in their campaign of combined terror and allurement, making one more score to settle. And when he gets his principal hidden foe out into the open, facing him at last with pistol against pistol, he astonishes him with a ruthlessness which Americans aren't supposed to display.

The three women have splendid parts and enact them well. Walter Slezak in a very difficult role fulfills the promise he showed as Ginger Rogers' husband in "Once Upon a Honeymoon," and as the Nazi major in "This Land Is Mine."

MISSING WOMAN IS SOUGHT HERE

Mrs. Georgia Poe, or Mrs. Georgia Mae Poe, of Abilene, Tex., has been missing since October 14, according to information released Saturday from the office of B. L. Brantley, chief of police. Monroe's police officers have been asked by the police department in Austin, Tex., to be on the lookout for the 47-year-old woman.

Mrs. Poe is described as 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds, and having black hair and blue eyes. At the time she disappeared the woman was wearing a black hat, either a black or a tan coat, and carried a gray suitcase.

Twelve persons turned up for the show.

Adler and Draper Bravely went through their chores. The lack of patrons was attributed to a misunderstanding with the sponsor about dates. The two entertainers will return to the footlights for an advertised show.

'The Sky's The Limit' At Capitol

Fred Astaire And Joan Leslie Starred In New Screen Musical

GIVING the agile Fred Astaire his most likeable role in years, RKO Radio's "The Sky's the Limit" teams him for the first time with Joan Leslie in a tuneful romantic offering which deals with an A. V. G. pilot's adventures during a brief leave in New York City. It opens at the Capitol today.

Robert Benchley heads the supporting cast as a millionaire publisher and Miss Leslie's employer, the heroine being a roving photographer for one of Benchley's magazines. Astaire, wearing civilian clothes to avoid notoriety during his few days of leave in the metropolis, falls hard for the girl and tries his best to intrigue her.

He does so, successfully dodging all her efforts to find him a job, but then he discovers that Benchley also is in love with her. Feeling that a flier in wartime has no business asking a girl to wait for him, Astaire tries to further Benchley's suit. The heroine doesn't see it that way, and things build up to a gay climax of cross-purposes and misunderstandings.

Two striking dance routines by the two stars, two solo dances by Fred himself and four new hit tunes by Johnny Mercer and Harold Arlen are featured in the picture. "My Shining Hour," "I've Got a Lot in Common with You" and "One for My Baby and One for the Road" are the hit song numbers, the music being that of Freddie Slack and his orchestra. Fred and Joan dance one of their spectacular routines at a big service men's canteen, and the other in Benchley's luxurious penthouse, while Fred's big solo, "One for the Road," winds up with a startling performance on the top of a night-club bar.

Robert Ryan and Richard Davies portray a pair of Astaire's Flying Tiger pals and Elizabeth Patterson, Marjorie Gateson and Clarence Kolb have important supporting roles. David Hempstead produced the film, which was directed by E. H. Griffith from an original screenplay by Frank Fenton and Lynn Root.

SIX SCOUTS WILL GET EAGLE AWARDS

An unusual Boy Scout court of honor will be held in Winnsboro Thursday evening when eagle awards will be presented to Scouts Vernon Baldwin, Bruce Landis III, Tommy Price, Ecklef Hilliard, Robert McCaleb and James Donnell. So far as can be ascertained from records, this is the first time in the history of Ouachita Valley council that a single troop has produced six Eagle Scouts at one time.

These boys belong to troop 53 and are sponsored by the American Legion. W. B. Wilson is scoutmaster.

Members of the troop committee are Joe Dante, chairman, J. A. Holmes, R. C. Davis, J. W. McLemore and G. R. Baldwin. The occasion is to be celebrated by Winnsboro in one of the largest court of honors ever taking place in the midland district.

LOUISIANA STATE TRIUMPHS OVER GEORGIA ELEVEN, 27-6

Steve Van Buren Accounts For 3 Touchdowns In Pacing Tigers To Win

COLUMBIA, Ga., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Louisiana State's colorful football team—one eye on a possible bid to Miami's Orange Bowl—rolled over Georgia today, 27-6, before 13,000 fans in a great exhibition of weight, strength and a gent named Steve Van Buren.

Van Buren bludgeoned his way to three touchdowns and kicked two extra points. The performance boosted his season's total to 83 points—a challenge to the national individual scoring leadership.

For Georgia, it was the second defeat this season by Louisiana State. The teams met in September at Baton Rouge, L. S. U. winning on a last-minute touchdown, 34-27.

Georgia surprised the Bayou Boys with a first-period touchdown. A roughing penalty and a 17-yard line jab by Billy Rutland pushed L. S. U. to the 17, and Johnny Cook passed to Substitute End Reid Moseley of Huntsville, Ala., on the five. Rutland lunged over to score on the next play. George Jernigan's placement was low.

Van Buren put L. S. U. ahead at the start of the second period, culminating a 60-yard assault with a five-yard plunge for the touchdown. His placement put L. S. U. ahead, 7-6.

After that the Tigers never were in danger. Later in the same period, Cook dropped a punt far down field—too far for his ends to cover—and Van Buren streaked 81 yards up the sideline to another touchdown. Again he kicked the point.

Georgia passes clicked for two threats in the last half, but each failed. In the third period Carroll Griffith intercepted on the goal-line and sped to mid-field. From there Van Buren, Schroll and Nagata ripped through Georgia's line and Van Buren bucked over from the one to score. His placement was wide.

L. S. U. went 63 yards to score a final touchdown in the fourth period. Gute halfback, uncorked a passing assault that went all the way. Abner Wimberly, taking the ball on a 17-yard pitch to score. Knight kicked the point.

Starting lineups:

L. S. U.	Pos.	Georgia
Goode	LE	Bailey
Hunt	LT	Burke
Jannecke	LG	Garasic
Claunch	C	Meeks
Polozola	RG	Castronis
Hartley	RT	Eaves
Webb	RE	Phillips
Haley	QB	Hague
Van Buren	LH	Rutland
Griffith	RH	Bratton
Schroll	FB	Barrett

Score by quarters:

L. S. U.	0	14	6	7	—27
Georgia	6	0	0	0	—6

Louisiana State scoring: touchdowns, Van Buren 3, Wimberly (for Griffith). Points after touchdown, Van Buren 2, Knight (for Van Buren), placements.

Georgia scoring: touchdowns, Rutland.

COLGATE 20; CORNELL 7

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Colgate's humbly regarded Red Raiders pounced on unsuspecting Cornell today and upset the Ivy leaguers, 20-7, with a cleverly varied aerial and ground attack that yielded scores in all but the second period when Cornell momentarily deadlocked the game.

An unheralded freshman back, Frank Muelheuser, rose to great heights in igniting the Raiders to a 60-yard touchdown drive in the first period, a 68-yard push in the third quarter, and a 50-yard pay-off maneuver in the final.

NAVY BEATS TECH BY 28-14 SCORE

Hamberg Pulls Middies Ahead With 2 Touchdown Heaves In Final Quarter

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The Navy football team flirted with trouble tonight, and for three quarters of its game with Georgia Tech it seemed the Middies might get a tumble. They finally came through with a 28-to-14 victory to keep their record unblemished, thanks to some spectacular work by a stocky little bundle of energy named Hal Hamberg.

The 56,223 fans who sat in Baltimore stadium saw more of a football game than they anticipated, and with the score deadlocked at 14-all at the end of three quarters of play, it seemed that anything might happen in the final 15 minutes.

It did, and to Georgia Tech quickly, with Hamberg putting on the crusher by hurling two more touchdown passes to run his total for the evening by that medium to three, in addition to one score he personally accounted for with a nine-yard plunge.

It wasn't all Hamberg by any means. He was given a run for top billing by Eddie Prokop, man of all work in the Tech backfield, who threw two touchdown passes in addition to running and punting and generally making himself a pest to the hard pressed Middies.

So hard pressed were they that in the first quarter, they scarcely were on the ball field. They used only the territory up to their own 30-yard line on offensive as Tech, taking advantage of Navy fumbles, twice drove up to within 10 yards of a touchdown. Tech finally put the ball over, with Prokop passing to Hal Kilzer for nine yards and the score.

Aroused, Navy came right back for a penalty-punctuated 90-yard march at the start of the second quarter, with Ben Martin's 53-yard gallop on a reverse the highlight. Hamberg passed 25 yards to Joe Sullivan for the score which, with Vic Finos' unerring place kick getting an assist, tied the score.

The Middies jumped to a 14-7 lead shortly after the next kickoff, using plunges, passes and even the ancient Statue of Liberty play to advance from the Tech 44 to the nine, from where Hamberg shot through the middle to register.

The third quarter started out as a duplicate of the first, with Tech again in the driver's seat, and after one drive had been checked by an end-zone interception, Prokop and Joe Brown started a string of completed passes which ended with Prokop shooting a fourth-down flat pass to Brown from the three-yard line for the touchdown. Prokop then place kicked the tieing point.

Then Hamberg broke Tech's heart with a 78-yard run back of the kickoff to the Tech 19 as the quarter ended, and as the final quarter opened he passed to Dick Duden for 15 yards for the third Navy marker. A few minutes later he tossed another pass from the Tech 23, with Tech tacklers clinging to his legs, and Al Channell took it in the clear and romped over.

PURDUE 28; IOWA 7

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Held on even terms for three quarters of the game, Purdue's mighty Boilermakers suddenly touched off their offensive fireworks with a blast that produced three touchdowns in 14 minutes of the last quarter and brought them a 28-to-7 football victory today over a stubborn University of Iowa eleven. It was Purdue's sixth consecutive victory.

Iowa's rugged and hard charging line held Purdue to only one touchdown in the first three quarters and the Hawkeyes even led for a part of the game. After Paul Glasener scored Iowa's first period marker, "Touchdown" Tony Butkovich evened the count in the second quarter. Then it was a ding-dong battle until Purdue swept 71 yards in three plays to send Butkovich over again at the start of the final period.

A few minutes later Butkovich went over again after an on-side kickoff. The final Purdue score came when an Iowa pass from center went into the end zone and was recovered by Nathan Laskin, reserve Boilermaker end.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Although he hasn't seen anything like a complete report, Secretary Dan Ferris thinks that the A. A. U. civilian physical fitness program this summer was a tremendous success. . . . And Yale's Bob Kiphuth, who handled it in Connecticut, estimates that some 250,000 certificates will be awarded to folks who risked bucked shins and housemaid's knee to prove that they weren't in as bad shap as they always had thought. . . . The season is about over for track and field tests, but the program is moving indoors for swimming, gymnastics, weight lifting, etc., in case you want to try your strength. . . . Zeke Bonura has been awarded the legion of merit medal by General Eisenhower for organizing a baseball program in the Mediterranean area. . . . If these were normal times, you could count on Zeke holding out for the silver star next season.

Natural Error

The other day the Auburn, N. Y., Citizen-Advertiser ran a picture of Joe McCarthy under the caption: "All-America Future Book." . . . And probably the makeup man caught the devil for not deleting the word "future."

One-Minute Sports Page

Football's Saturday afternoon broadcasts have a combined Crosley rating of 42—or about double that of the highest-paid entertainers. . . . Sportsman's park, the St. Louis baseball orchard, once housed a half-mile race track (page Jedge Landis) as well as a shoot-the-shoots, which is probably what the Cardinals stepped on during the world series. . . . When asked about the prospects for the 1944 major league season recently, Paul Waner answered: "Who knows? I may be a $100,000 beauty next spring." . . . Illinois sports scribes are plugging 17-year-old Eddie Bray, Illini left half, for the "kids' All-America." . . . Says one: "He might score eight out of ten times as a post runner (with a strong team). What's more, he can—and likes to—tackle."

Today's Guest Star

John Berkebile, Burlington (Ia.) Hawkeye Gazette: "The university of Iowa Hawkeyes last Saturday all but eliminated Hunchy Hoernschemeyer, the great Indiana passer, as All-America fodder, which secretly brings great rejoicing to sports headline writers—who have been trying all season, without success, to squeeze Hunchy's name into any of the type faces back in the composing room."

Couple Of Good Scouts

In accordance with the Big Six conference's non-scouting agreement, Coach Dewey Luster of Oklahoma recently mailed the Sooner "A" formation and single wing diagrams to Kansas State's Ward Haylett in preparations for their football tilt today and Haylett sent Luster K. State's Warner formation. . . . Then last Monday "Snorter" decided to put in some plays from a balanced line and wired Haylett. . . . That same night Luster was wearing a broad grin as he displayed Haylett's reply: "We are taking up the T formation this week."

Among the 20 candidates who answered the first baseball call at Mitchel Field, L. I., were only five former Long Island U. players—Privates Si Lobello, Lenny and Howie Rader and Stan Waxman and W. O. Max Scharf. Ossie Schechtman won't turn out until later. . . . Abe Feldman, who used to be a pretty good heavyweight, is back in his Schenectady, N. Y., coal business after getting a medical discharge from the coast guard. . . . Lieutenant Whitey Hlad, the hurler, is a meteorologist at a southern army air field and hopes to be able to enter some of the indoor track meets this winter.

When Jerry Exley, a Portland, Ore., prep coach, got a look at some of the huskies his "Po' little boys" were scheduled to play recently, he wisecracked: "I'm going to start all freshmen and then the kids will have three full years in which to recover." . . . Might be a hint for Lou Little.

TEXAS 58; RICE 0

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns today climbed another rung on the ladder toward the Southwest conference football championship, defeating the Rice institute Owls, 58-0, before 17,000 spectators.

It was Texas' largest score against its old rival since 1915, when the Longhorns amassed a total of 59 points.

Speed, particularly in the persons of Ralph Ellsworth, a converted trackman at the tailback position, was the principal factor in the Texas victory.

The Longhorns scored twice in the opening period, twice in the second, four times in the third and once in the final quarter.

TULANE DEFEATS SOUTHERN METHODIST BY 12-6 COUNT

Greenies Score On Lightning Stabs, Stave Off Bids By Mustangs

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Tulane's spirited Green Wave struck with two lightning touchdown plays here today to whip the Mustangs of Southern Methodist, 12 to 6 before 22,000 fans.

The Greenies got their first touchdown midway of the opening period on Tailback Billy Jones' 18-yard pass to End Aubrey "Snake" Bailey. The play climaxed a drive that started from the Mustangs' 47-yard line. Bailey's try for point after touchdown was wide.

Jim Shiver, freshman transfer from Auburn, got the second Tulane touchdown in the fourth period on the most sensational play of the game. Shiver intercepted Bob Stewart's long pass on the Tulane 43, cut to his right then reversed his field and scampered 57 yards for the score. Shiver missed the extra point try, but the Greenies' lead appeared safe with less than six minutes remaining in the game.

The Mustangs made numerous scoring threats, but waited until the Greenies had piled up a 10 to 0 lead before scoring. Following the second Tulane touchdown, Leon Cunningham returned the kickoff 15 yards to the 41 and from that spot the Mustangs drove for a touchdown.

Fullback C. D. Allen finally crashed over tackle for the score on fourth down after S. M. U. had made it first and goal to go on Tulane's 3-yard line. Shaw's try for point was blocked by McMillan.

Buddy Gatewood, Tulane center who made all-Southwest honors at Baylor last year, and Tailback Lloyd Parker of the Mustangs were the outstanding performers of the game. Gatewood, a naval trainee playing his last college game, was in on every play, breaking up passes and backing the Tulane line in All-American fashion. Parker was a threat throughout the game, but his line couldn't move the sturdy Green Wave forewall in scoring territory.

Southern Methodist made one of their most serious early scoring threats in the second quarter with Parker, Cunningham and Gipson alternating in advancing the ball from their own

BASEBALL TO MAP '44 SEASON PLANS

First Of Pair Of Important Meetings To Be Held In Chicago Monday Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Baseball's plans for the 1944 season will be largely mapped out at two sets of meetings to be held within the next six weeks.

The first of these is the major leagues' annual "draft" meeting at Chicago a week from Monday at which the big league clubs will attempt to bolster their rosters by selecting players from the minors.

The second session is the annual winter conclave of the major and minor leagues in New York starting December 1, at which time legislative problems, player deals, schedules, etc., will be considered.

In peacetime the fall draft meeting was of little moment and usually was conducted by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis at night after one of the World Series games. However, the war caused it to be moved to November 1 last year and manpower problems have given it increased importance this year.

Under baseball rules the major league clubs are entitled to draft players from minor league clubs for specified payments which range up to $7,500 for a performer chosen from the double-A circuits. First choice goes to the clubs finishing last in the big leagues and others are made in rotation up the standings.

It is probable that some of the big league clubs will choose as many as three or four players in this manner, with emphasis being placed on players who are unlikely to be called for military service.

The meeting also will provide the club owners an opportunity to open negotiations for major league trades and to discuss matters that will come before the December meetings.

IRISH TURN BACK ILLINOIS, 47 TO 0

Notre Dame Gives Reserves Workout During Most Of Contest

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Notre Dame reaffirmed its claim to the role of the No. 1 football team today by pounding to a convincing 47-to-0 victory over an Illinois eleven which numbered eight freshmen in its starting lineup.

Master Craftsman Angelo Bertelli, playing his last home game for the Irish, worked all the first period, less than four minutes of the third, and one play near the end of the game to receive a rousing sendoff from the crowd of 25,000. The other Irish regulars played just a few minutes more than the famed passer.

While Bertelli was in, Notre Dame scored three of its touchdowns. Two in the first period were by Julius Rykovich. He took a 35-yard pass from Bertelli on a dead run at the goal line for one, and plunged over from the four for the other.

Bertelli threw seven passes in all and completed five for 83 yards. Reserve Halfback Bob Palladino scored two more Irish touchdowns in the second period to give Notre Dame a 26-to-0 halftime lead. Creighton Miller went 30 yards down the sidelines to score in the third period and Fred Earley followed up with a nine-yard touchdown run. Johnny Lujack made the fourth period marker.

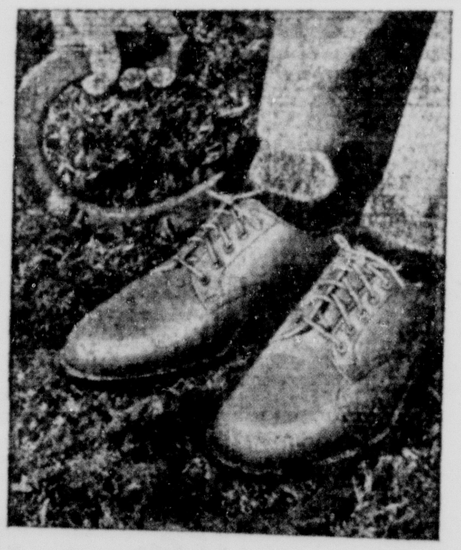

The starting lineups:

MICHIGAN BEATS MINNESOTA, 49-6

Wolverines Led By Daley And Hirsch In One-Sided Grid Victory

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Michigan's amalgamated Wolverines today stormed back into the victory column with a pulverizing 49-6 triumph over previously undefeated Minnesota, the most one-sided victory in the 34-year little brown jug series and the worst defeat in modern Gopher annals.

The Wolverines, crushed by Notre Dame, 35-12, two weeks ago, rolled up seven touchdowns with ridiculous ease to halt a nine-year Minnesota winning streak over Michigan and give Coach Fritz Crisler his first victory over the school he coached in 1930 and 1931.

Bill Daley performed as expected against his former war-reduced Gopher mates, but it was Wisconsin's Elroy Hirsch who provided most of the fireworks. Hirsch scored three touchdowns, his first a sensational 61-yard payoff gallop on the first running play of the game, and his passing set up another.

Daley did his stuff in the second half, scoring two touchdowns and kicking two extra points, to spark a sizzling 35-point attack by the Wolverines in the final two periods.

The starting lineups:

Minnesota	Pos.	Michigan
Gagne	LE	Smeja
Rapka	LT	Hanzlik
Graiziger	LG	Gallagher
Lossie	C	Negus

KIKI CUYLER SIGNED AS CRACKERS' PILOT

ATLANTA, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, 17 years a big-league ball player and for the last two seasons a coach for the Chicago Cubs, was signed today on a two-year contract to manage the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association.

President Earl Mann of the Crackers, declining to disclose terms, said Cuyler had left the Cubs with approval of Business Manager James Gallagher, who told him he could have a job as coach for the Cubs or as manager of a minor league Chicago affiliate any time he wished to return.

Signing of Cuyler fulfilled Mann's prediction at the close of the 1943 season, when he declared the Crackers would undertake to get a manager with previous Southern association experience. Cuyler managed Chattanooga's Lookouts for three years, leaving the club in August, 1941, to join the Cubs.

Cuyler piloted Chattanooga to a pennant in 1939—its second in Southern association play. The Lookouts finished on top in 1932.

Cuyler went to the big leagues from Nashville, where he was voted the outstanding player of the Southern league in 1923.

VANDY 40; CAMP CAMPBELL 14

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The non-military, reborn Vanderbilt football eleven grounded the 726th ordnance bombers of Camp Campbell four minutes after the take-off this afternoon on Dudley field with a touchdown, and crashed in 40 points against the Bombers' 14 at the end of the game.

The Commodores, few of whom are over 18, were termed "just too young for us" by Bomber Coach Carlos Casale in a statement to Vandy Coach Herc Alley.

Vandy sparkled from the opening kickoff through the final period, slashing through the Army behemoths no matter what combination Alley fielded, while the star-studded soldier team lacked the cohesion and condition to use the full force of its latent power.

PENN 33; COLUMBIA 0

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Scoring five touchdowns and having two others nullified because of penalties, Pennsylvania's undefeated and untied football team swamped Columbia, 33 to 0, before 15,000 at Baker field today.

All the touchdowns were made by the Penn varsity, who played only 23 of 60 minutes in chalking up their fifth straight victory. Columbia waged an even battle with the Penn reserves for the other 37 minutes, twice threatening to score after long passes by Gilman Kraft.

Sparked by little Joe Kane at halfback, who scored three of the five touchdowns, the Quaker first stringers piled up a 20-0 lead in the first ten minutes, then retired until the third period when they scored twice more in 13 minutes.

The first time Penn got the ball Kane ran 24 yards for a touchdown that was called back. Joe Michaels then raced 29 yards for the first score. Within the next five minutes Penn had scored again on a 25-yard pass, Michaels to Kane, and a seven-yard plunge by Kane through the middle of the line to climax a 53-yard drive.

Showing little but straight football, Penn rolled 70 yards for their fourth touchdown in the third period, a substitute fullback, Grover Jones, plunging over from the one. Kane personally accounted for the last, carrying the ball on four consecutive plays from the 23. The scoring play was a wide end sweep from the one.

GEORGIA PRE-FLIGHT 20; N. C. PRE-FLIGHT 7

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The Georgia navy pre-flight school's Skycrackers uncovered power in their all-cadet team here today to settle once and for all their feud with the Cloudbusters of the North Carolina navy pre-flight school and romped to a 20-7 victory before 5,000 spectators, mostly aviation cadets.

The two teams, playing off a 14-14 tie from last year's game, sidelined the officer stars that have sparked them through the season to date, and the coaches used their cadet talent freely.

The Georgians, entering the game as favorites, presented a trio of fleet backs, and they practically established residence in Cloudbuster territory during the first half.

Sparked by H. C. Byers of Rome, Ga., Zealand Thigpen of Russellville, Ark., and Wallace Moessner of Clayton, Mo., the Crackers drove across a touchdown in the second period and then added two more in the final stanzas.

ARMY 39; YALE 7

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Army didn't bring its cadets along to the Yale bowl to march before the game today, but there was an army parade just the same.

The all-victorious cadet footballers staged this one with all the trimmings, displaying their gridiron equivalents of heavy tanks, big guns and an assortment of block busters as they walloped Yale's very-Blues 39-7 and ran their winning string to five straight for the season.

Before a crowd of 33,000, the West Pointers pushed four touchdowns over in the first half and waltzed to another pair in the last two quarters as they completely outclassed the home club, except for a few brief moments in the second half.

One of these moments came in the third period, when Ray Scussell blasted through the middle of the Army line, to gallop 73 yards to the West Point eight. Four plays later, Scussell passed to Al Mahoney down the alley for Yale's lone score.

This marked the first time this season Army has been scored on, but that only gave the Yales a little something to write home about, because by that time Army had the thing all iced up and ready to be served.

CAMP DAVIS 27; DAVIDSON 0

CAMP DAVIS, N. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Tallying three touchdowns in the first half and one in the second, Camp Davis rolled to a 27-0 score over a youthful and hard-fighting Davidson college eleven today.

In the presence of 15,000 anti-aircraft soldiers, three blue brigade teams were inserted by Major Henry Johnson, AA mentor, in the process of amassing 230 yards rushing and completing nine of 21 pass tries.

The victory, however, was costly. Jerry Bisceglia, backfield luminary, suffered a broken leg early in the contest.

WAKE FOREST 21; V. M. I. 0

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 23.—(AP)—It was a peculiar Southern conference football game indeed, that was played in a light wind here today because Wake Forest's Deacons, who had plenty of power and speed to spare, had to depend on the breaks before they managed to beat the Virginia Military- institute's youthful, stout hearted Keydets, 21-0, before a crowd of 3,000.

The customers had expected to witness a sizzling passing game on the part of the Keydets, but V. M. I.'s passing star, Garvin Jones, received a shoulder injury in the opening chapter and never returned to the contest. That ended the Keydets' aerial hopes.

Less than seven minutes had elapsed before the Deacons got their first break, and they lost little time taking advantage of the opportunity.

Big Buck Garrison, 185-pound tackle from Morgantown, N. C., crashed through the V. M. I. line and threw his body over Halfback Billy Collins' punted ball, then wheeled and dropped on the pigskin on the V. M. I. 21. Five plays later, Halfback Jeff Brogdon scampered over for the score.

U. S. C. 6; COLLEGE OF PACIFIC 0

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—(AP)—One lightning thrust through the air in the fourth quarter gave the Trojans of Southern California a 6-to-0 football victory today over previously unbeaten College of the Pacific.

Seventy-five thousand, largest crowd of the year, watched the contest.

The speedy Trojans turned what appeared to be scoreless tie into victory as their quarterback, Mickey McCardle, grabbed a Pacific punt and ran it back to the U. S. C. 32. McCardle then shot a pass to Eddie Saenz near the sideline and he went all the way to the Tigers' 45. Mickey next topped one to George Callanan, sub halfback, on a flanker and he was hauled down on the 26.

With Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's men expecting an end run, George ran wide to his right and then sent a swift aerial to his brother, Howard Callanan, who tight-roped his way across the goal for the only touchdown.

TULSA 55; UTAH 0

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Maurice Wade passed and ran for five touchdowns today as Tulsa's Golden Hurricane crushed the Utah Indians, 55-0.

A crowd of 6,000 saw the one-time star of the Missouri Tigers pitch three touchdown passes to Barney White, return a punt 50 yards for another, and gallop 48 yards on a perfectly-executed reverse for a fifth.

While Clyde LeForce, Tulsa's great triple threat artist, sat this one out, Wade went in to build a brilliant passing record, hitting the bulls-eye 12 times in 15 tries.

OKLAHOMA 37; KANSAS STATE 0

MANHATTAN, Kans., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The University of Oklahoma Sooners crushed Kansas State's all-civilian football team, 37-0, today.

Derald Lebow, Sooner back, returned a punt 25 yards to start the first touchdown march. He passed to Bob Brumley and then to Dub Wooten to place the ball on State's 22 yard line. Another aerial to Brumley took the ball to the 10 and on the next play the former Rice star zig-zagged to a touchdown.

The Sooners tallied a touchdown and safety in the second and punched across two more touchdowns in the third and one in the final period.

NORTHWESTERN 13; OHIO STATE 0

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Northwestern's versatile and powerful Wildcats, featuring "Automatic Otto" Graham in the No. 1 offensive role, pounced on Ohio State university's youthful Bucks today for a 13-to-0 victory before 37,243 fans.

It was the fourth win in five starts for the 'Cats, and the fourth loss in five games for the Bucks.

The "zero" on the Ohio side of the score board was the first ever seen there under Coach Paul Brown's Ohio regime, and the first the Buckeye mentor suffered in his last 60 games as a high school and college football tutor.

PENN STATE 45; MARYLAND 0

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Penn State's Lions, getting away early and fast on a series of University of Maryland misplays, ruined the Old Liners' homecoming today before 5,000 fans to register a crushing 45-0 victory in the fifth renewal of their football hostilities.

Soon after the opening kick off, Bill Pirronello fumbled on Maryland's 19, End Ed Czekaj recovering to start the State steam roller. Bobby Williams smashed five times, moving to the four, where Fullback Allen Richards crashed over, and the Lion adding machine went into action.

W. VIRGINIA 32; CARNEGIE TECH 0

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A fumble at the opening kickoff forecast events to come as West Virginia university's Mountaineers poured across five touchdowns to smother Carnegie Tech, 32-0, today before a homecoming throng of 6,176.

After a first quick touchdown by Fullback John Lucente, Coach Ira Rodgers' eleven was on top of numerous breaks leading to a second score in the opening quarter, another in the third and two in the final period.

LIONS WILL PLAY FAIR PARK FRIDAY

Class AA Game Is Scheduled Here But May Be Shifted To Shreveport

The Ouachita Parish High school Lions, who passed their season's first Class AA conference test Thursday night by beating Haynesville, will attempt to slown down the fast-stepping Fair Park High school Indians of Shreveport next Friday. The game is scheduled to be played in Monroe, but Fair Park officials are making a strong bid to get the game transferred to Shreveport, Coach George Riser said last night.

Coach Riser said a definite decision on where the game would be played would be made tomorrow. A few weeks ago some effort was made to arrange for a night clash between these two teams in West Monroe, but the necessary equipment was not available.

The Fair Park-Ouachita series will be in its sixth game this year. For four years the two teams played with only 12 points being scored, two games being scoreless ties with each team taking one of these games on first downs. Each team won a 6-0 game which made the 12 points for the first four years. Ouachita managed a 14-0 decision in Shreveport last year, and the Tribe will be out to more than double that score this year against the Lions.

The Indians have a very powerful line that has had few points scored through it this year. If and when opponents score, it is usually against the second team—and it is above average size. These linemen have some fine prep backs behind them. Back Harvey Johnson does about everything well, and is closely followed by David Davis as a Fair Park threat.

Ouachita came out of its game with the Haynesville Tornado in fair shape, excepting Jerry Gregg who injured an ankle. The extent of Gregg's injury has not been determined. He was the chief ground-gainer and punter against the Tornado, keeping the opposition guessing as long as he was in action.

The whole Lion team played hard but made several costly mistakes that Coach Riser expects to iron out before the Indian tussle.

Ray Clark and J. E. Tripp played outstanding ball at the ends and even overshadowed the highly touted Haynesville wingmen who have been tearing previous opposition to bits. Both Ouachita touchdowns in the 13-6 victory were scored by Gregg on end runs.

Eugene Grandberry, Eugene Roswell and Bailey played stellar ball at the tackles, and Tom Miller and Curtis Hall were playing a far better game than usual at the guards. Big John Humble came in for his share of the work, causing the Tornado to resort to long passes instead of short ones just over the line.

Miller Frey stood out defensively and his blocking, especially on the big ends, had plenty to do with the touchdown drives. Flem McMillan's hard drives kept the Tornado line playing close so that well executed end plays got off to better starts.

The experience the Lions have gained in their games until now will have to serve them well if they come up with a win this week.

CAMP LEJEUNE 20; JACKSONVILLE 7

NEW RIVER, N. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A last half rally gave the Camp LeJeune Marines a 20-7 victory over the Jacksonville, Fla., naval air technical training corps air raiders here today.

Halfbacks Paul Dubenetzsky and June Kleinhenz scored for the Leathernecks in the third quarter after Fullback Nick Sanzotta had pushed the ball across for the visitors early in the previous period.

Kleinhenz tallied again for Camp LeJeune in the final quarter on a drive from his own 22-yard line with Fullback Frankie Keisecker leading the attack.

38-yard line to the Tulane four, where the Greenies held.

The Mustangs came back again and moved into scoring territory, but Gatewood intercepted a pass over the Tulane goal and ran out to the 8-yard line to kill the threat.

Billy Jones turned in a sparkling run to open the second half. Taking the kickoff on the Tulane 11, he whipped to the sideline and raced 89-yards to cross the S. M. U. goal, but officials ruled that he had stepped out on the Mustangs' 49.

Both lines played fine defensive games. Southern Methodist made 75 yards rushing, net, and Tulane 56, and the Mustangs got 121 yards passing to 63 for Tulane.

The starting lineups:

S. M. U.	Pos.	Tulane

and Gold uniform of the Selman outfit for the first time this afternoon at left end. The speedy pass snagger has been out since early practice sessions with a leg injury but seems fully recovered and ready to take his place with the starters.

A revamped backfield that adds power and speed to the running and passing attack of the Cyclones is ready for action. Mack Bishop, erstwhile guard, will appear in the role of a fullback for the clash and his performance as a line smashing runner in this week's drills stamps him as a real threat to the invaders. Bob Swanson, last week's fullback, has been shifted to a halfback post as running mate to the flashy "Jack Rabbit" Jesse Nichols, leading ground gainer against Lake Charles. These two wingbacks are counted on to furnish the offensive fireworks. Jimmy Harris, a halfback starter in the first battle, will resume the duties of quarterback today, from which position he will display his triple threat talents.

Carrying more weight and more experience, the Spartans rank on almost equal terms with the Cyclones and today's clash should develop into a top notch battle between two strong teams. Don Drake, a 205-pound guard that won recognition while playing for Dartmouth, heads the attack of the Livingston team.

The probable lineups and weights:

Livingston	Wgt.	Pos.	Wgt.	Selman

CHULTZ, STEELE TO BATTLE AGAIN

ing Dutchman Gets Another Shot At Crown In Mat Bout Wednesday

he light heavyweight championship d between Jack "Stinger" Steele, nant to the world's light-heavy crown, and Herbie "Dutch" ultz, will be renewed Wednesday t at the Monroe Wrestling arena, noter Gus Kallio announced last t.

he Flying Dutchman from Mil- kee assumed title aspirations when defeated Steele, the Sioux City boy, in a non-title scrap recently, last week was afforded an oppor- ty to take the crown in a champ- hip match here.

t Schultz, who was "counted out" he third and deciding fall of the brawl, blamed Referee Allen Cor- for his downfall and pointed out the referee had failed to start the enty-count" over when he was cked from the ring a second time. he mixup in which Schultz rged the loser occured when Steele threw the challenger out of the ring. Schultz tried to return and was knocked out two more times. Then Schultz caught the champ through the ropes and dragged him outside the ring also. In a fist fight in the aisle, Schultz was knocked groggy and Steele leaped back into the ring.

The referee began tolling off the count and reached "fourteen" when Schultz gained the apron of the ring and started back into action. But Steele knocked him back into the ring-side chairs, where the challenger lay helpless for several seconds. The referee, however, continued the count to twenty and awarded Steele the match.

Schultz, objecting to the referee's failure to start the count over after he had been knocked out the second time, took his anger out on Referee Corbin and engaged in some fist slinging with the ring official before finally quieting down and accepting defeat.

The Dutchman in challenging Steele to a return match also asked for a new referee.

Promoter Kallio said Allen "Sailor" Parker, veteran wrestler and also an aspirant for the light-heavy crown, had been engaged to handle the title match.

Parker will also appear as a wrestler, meeting Jack Swenson of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the semi-final event which will start the show at 8 o'clock.

TRIBESMEN GET 2 FIRST DOWNS

Specialists Outclass Local Team In All Departments Of Play

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The army specialist training unit at Louisiana State university overwhelmed the A. S. T. U. of Northeast Junior college at Monroe, 52 to 0, here tonight outclassing the upstate gridders in all departments of play and allowing the visitors only two first downs.

Larry Hatch and Jeff Burkett starred for the winners, scoring most of their team's markers. Northeast Junior college came close to scoring in the final period on a forward pass but the receiver allowed the ball to slip through his fingers.

Jeff Burkett, former L. S. U. fullback, dashed 60 yards with an intercepted Northeast pass for one touchdown and scored again on a 22-yard reverse. Larry Hatch, Washington university tailback, scored on 10- and 19-yard runs.

Walter Gregonis, U. of Penn., and Hubert Shurtz, ex-L. S. U., ran blocked punts for other touchdowns, and Aubrey McGehee, also ex-L. S. U., plunged two yards for another.

DESTROYER LAUNCHED

ORANGE, Tex., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Major, destroyer escort vessel, was launched from the ways of the Consolidated Steel corporaton shipyard here today. The ship was named in honor of the late Ensign Charles Nance Major, U. S. N. R., who was killed in action in the Atlantic area. His widow, Ensign Margaret Roper Major, women's reserve, U. S. navy, of the Navy supply corps school, Radcliff college, Cambridge, Mass., sponsored the vessel.

GOBS OF ACTION

Soccer takes on an unusually strenuous aspect as it is played at Great Lakes naval training station. Sometimes there are as many as 50 on a side, but otherwise rules are observed except when it gets a bit rough. Then the boys frequently behave as though they were giving the Japs the full treatment.

S. L. I. WINS, 27-6

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Two fine football teams hooked up here tonight in one of the roughest games ever played in Texas, with Southwestern Louisiana Institute removing Southwestern university from the unbeaten ranks with a 27-6 victory—thanks mostly to the great Alvin Dark.

YUGOSLAV FORCES IN HEAVY FIGHTING

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Yugoslav partisans under the dashing young lawyer-general, Peter Dabcevis, today were involved in heavy fighting with Nazi motorized units in the vicinity of Mount Chakor on the Montenegran-Albanian frontier, while other patriots captured four villages in southwest Slovenia.

A communique of the Yugoslav liberation army reported the fall of the strategic Slovenian centers of Kopriva, Visnyvrh, Novi Grad and Gradisce, hamlets which are important because they command lines of communication in a difficult mountainous area.

The partisans also struck successfully along the railway line serving the territory between the Sava and Danube rivers in eastern Croatia, said a war bulletin broadcast by the free Yugoslav radio. German motorized and tank forces were under almost continuous attack in the Croatian province of Lika, near Jezerana, and near Dolny-Lapac. The partisans also sank a German ship off the Dalmatian coast.

The communique reported that two enemy tanks were destroyed in the fighting on the Montenegran-Albanian frontier. General Dabcevis' command there consists of units of the second corps. The youthful general won a military reputation fighting in the republican army in the Spanish Civil war.

On the southeastern Balkan front the Germans claimed they occupied Stampalia, another in the Dodecanese island group 28 miles southwest of Cos, freeing a large number of German prisoners held there by the British since late September.

SOLONS GET SPECIAL TICKETS TO CONTEST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Members of congress have been provided with an opportunity to obtain tickets—at a special rate—for the Army-Navy football game, despite a White House rule barring all spectators except those living within a ten mile radius of West Point.

Printed cards have been mailed the lawmakers, pointing out that a member of congress "is considered to be an honorary member of the Navy Athletic association without payment of annual dues" and as such "is privileged to purchase two tickets under a special rate arrangement."

The "special rate to congressmen" listed on the card is $3.40 a ticket, including the tax. The regular rate is posted at $4.40, including tax, and the members of congress may purchase tickets at that price, in addition to the two at discount rates, as long as the supply lasts.

A check of a half dozen members failed to disclose any preparing to take advantage of the privilege. Two of the members said they could not remember receiving a card. Several of the group said the congress should not be granted a privilege denied the general public.

One influential member immediately telephoned a high official connected with arrangements for the gridiron classic and cautioned him to see to it no exceptions are made to White House rule.

2 BARKSDALE FIELD OFFICERS KILLED

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Two Barksdale field officers were killed today in the crash of an army Cub liaison plane shortly after it took off from a runway at the field.

The dead are:

Second Lieutenant William R. Brown, the pilot, whose home is at Leesburg, Fla.

Captain Warren N. Steele, 32, Barksdale field medical officer, of Modesto, Calif.

Captain Steele had been in service for a year and had been at Barksdale field since last July. Before entering the army he practiced at Modesto.

AGGIES ARE HELD TO TIE BY NORTH TEXAS ELEVEN

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 23.—(AP)—North Texas Agricultural college, little brother of Texas A. and M. in the state's agricultural college system, uncovered a vicious defense to battle the Cadets to a 0-0 tie at Kyle field today before 8,000 spectators.

Smothering each Aggie drive before it could reach full development, N. T. A. C. rolled up ten first downs to the Aggies' three, and mustered a threat in the fourth quarter which faded only after Pee McMinn, taking a long heave from Pete Stout, dashed across to be called back when the pass was ruled illegal.

ST. MARY'S PRE-FLIGHT 39; CALIFORNIA 0

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Sparked by Left Halfback Bruce Smith, an all-America at the University of Minnesota in 1941, the St. Mary's navy pre-flight school charged to a 39-to-0 football victory today over the University of California.

For most of the first three periods, Smith put on practically a one-man show for some 18,000 fans in Memorial stadium.

He scored three touchdowns, intercepted three passes, one of which he returned 32 yards to score, and passed, plunged and tackled with all the cleverness that brought him national collegiate gridiron honors.

CANTRELL AND GARRETT SPEAK

Deliver Principal Talks At L. T. I. Weekly 'Pep' Meeting

Rev. D. D. Cantrell, pastor of the Central Baptist church, and Judge David I. Garrett of the Fourth Judicial district court, were principal speakers at Louisiana Training institute's weekly "pep" meeting Friday night.

Rev. Cantrell's devotional subject was taken from the Book of James, dealing with life and what the future hold. He said in part:

"The most important thing that is created for man, the most valuable thing of this earth is life."

He compared the structure of a building to a person in that if a building was carefully erected and of a good quality of material it would stand, the same being true of a person who carefully plans his life, builds his physical health and character. Life is most important, Rev. Cantrell explained, because God created man and instilled life in him. God depends on us to carry on the duties of the world, but He does not force us to carry on right. It is entirely up to the individual. He closed by saying, "We are here to be something as well as to do something."

Judge Garrett, principal speaker on the program, is a Tulane graduate, and was a marine captain in World war I. He explained to the boys the necessity of law.

Any game played must have rules and that is all that law is, Judge Garrett explained.

"Laws," he said, "are only passed when they are absolutely necessary. You boys are young and life is before you. What you make of it depends on you. You cannot make a person be something he does not want to be."

He told the boys, for example, that if they were going on a trip, all of them to pull a wagon with their baggage on the wagon and first one and then another would stop pulling and get on the wagon to ride, thus showing their lack of willingness to help themselves along, and, too, would be making the other boys pull them along, increasing the load.

"You must help yourself and push forward and not be a stumbling block in the way of others and expect them to push for you," the judge stated. He also praised the military training of the school, and expressed to the boys how much he thought it would help them.

Building Permits

At the office of Sam H. Awl, city building inspector, two permits were granted for building and remodeling.

Mrs. Dixie C. Cann, 106 Smith street, plans to add a porch to her residence at an estimated cost of $200.

Permission was given the Monroe Building and Loan to remodel a frame building at 207 Sixth street at a cost of $95. The remodeled residence will be used as an apartment.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BUYING PLEDGE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Governor Sam Jones announced today he had signed an "anti-black market" pledge and urged other citizens of the state to do likewise as they register for war ration book four.

The governor signed the pledge at the request of the Parent-Teacher association, one of several organizations volunteering to aid in obtaining similar pledges from all over the state.

The pledge read: "I will pay no more than top legal prices. I will accept no rationed goods without giving up ration stamps."

The governor added:

"In defense of our free institutions and in a determined effort to destroy the forces of autocracy and despotism from the face of the earth, this great nation has mustered into service nearly ten million men and women.

"Today on all military fronts Axis forces are falling back before the equipped and better fed men of the Allied nations. In time right will triumph and victory will be perched upon our banners. In the meantime, we who are left at home must do our part to make sure we do not suffer major defeat on the home front.

"We must hold the line against advancing prices and help stamp out black markets which threaten to bring about a disastrous inflation. This we can do by complying with necessary rationing regulations and by refusing to pay more than ceiling prices for goods we purchase."

"I urge the people of Louisiana to support this pledge and the campaign in every community in this state."

OLD REGULARS

fied for the governorship race, Dudley J. LeBlanc, was named as the Regular-supported entry in the secretary of state contest.

Other candidates said by the publications to have received the nod from the Old Regulars included:

Joe Cawthorn of Mansfield, for attorney general; L. E. Frazar, state superintendent of education; L. B. Baynard, auditor; Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture, and Lucille Grace Dent, register of state land office.

The States reported that Old Regular ward leaders and co-leaders were in session until after midnight Friday selecting their slate for the primary race but that an organization resolution adopted sometime ago would prevent formal endorsement of any candidate until after expiration Monday midnight of the time limit for gubernatorial candidates to qualify.

CHAPTER XXIII

"Herr Schroeder has come," the hotel clerk greeted Imhof on his return.

"Is he here now?" Imhof asked as he unhooked his room key from over the numbered pigeon hole for his mail in the little dovecote affair in the hall. Herr Schroeder, he was told, was out.

"Did he say when he was coming back?"

Schroeder had not.

Full of his news about Rick, Imhof knocked on Pat's door.

For a moment she could not take in the incredible fact. When she heard the whole story such joy possessed her that Imhof experienced a momentary twinge of jealousy.

"Oh, Ray! Think of it! Now we can all go together."

"If we can pinch this plane from Schroeder," said Imhof. "We've got to get busy—and work fast. No slips. If Schroeder's gone to that field we're sunk. Go down and see if he's back, while I brew a Mickey Finn for possible eventualities."

She went and Imhof dissolved in alcohol some morphia tablets he had brought with him. Then he joined Pat downstairs.

No Schroeder.

They had started the meager Mittagessen, when Pat's eyes suddenly kindled.

"Lieutenant!" she called gaily, her smile radiant. Imhof turned and saw Schroeder advancing towards them. He rose and greeted him with just the proper amount of friendliness. "Waiter!" he called. "Set a place here for the Herr Lieutenant."

The little flurry and scurry of the place setting over, Schroeder attacked his meal with Germanic gusto while Pat delicately probed for facts.

"Only five days' leave!" she exclaimed indignantly. "After keeping your nose so long to the grindstone! I do think it's mean. And now that they've dragged you here away from your family, they probably won't even think of looking you up for days!"

"That's good!" laughed Schroeder, exchanging with Imhof a look of male amusement at so feminine a conception of how affairs were conducted. "No, Fraulein," he explained consequentially, "I have to look them up. This very afternoon, too."

"How disappointing!" Pat exclaimed. "I hoped you'd be able to spend the afternoon with us. Can't you call them up and have the time changed?" she suggested.

"Colossal!" laughed Schroeder. "My new chief would be so pleased. I can imagine it." Schroeder rather heavily mimicked the attitude of his superior. "'What? Got a date for 3:30, Schroeder? Is she very pretty? Ach, come when you can.' Ja!"

Pat blushed in seeming confusion. "You're laughing at me," she complained. "I thought as you lived in Bensheim you'd probably been stationed here before and knew the field people."

"Sorry, Fraulein," said Schroeder contritely. "No, I know no one at the works here."

"Well, I think he must be horrid, this Herr Hochnasiger or whatever he's called that you have to report to."

"Fraulein! Fraulein!" reproved Schroeder, shocked like a good German by this disrespect for authority. "You mustn't speak of Kapitan Leiber so." He glanced around uneasily. "Please believe that I must report. I'm under orders."

"Why, it's just like the army, then!" She looked all abashed. "I didn't realize, or I—Rudolph!" she scolded Imhof. "Why didn't you stop me?"

Imhof only grinned in a brotherly way. He turned to Schroeder. "A liqueur?" he offered, as if to change the subject. "What'll it be?"

"A small brandy," Schroeder accepted.

"Two brandies," Imhof ordered. When the drinks were brought, he sniffed his, took a taste and hastily put the glass down. "Dreadful stuff!" he exclaimed, laying his hand on Schroeder's glass. "I can't treat you to such muck, Lieutenant." He bent over, looking mysterious. "Come to my room." He rose and beckoned. "I've got some of the real thing—Martell Four Star!" He winked knowingly and rubbed his hands. "You shall have a nip."

Upstairs, while Pat engaged the German's attention, Imhof poured out the drink and slipped the morphia solution into the glass he handed to Schroeder.

"To the flight tonight!" he pledged.

Presently Schroeder passed his hands over his eyes. Their voices seemed to grow dim, their faces wavered before him, the room spun around. He struggled to his feet. They just caught him as he collapsed.

Imhof laid him on the bed, emptied his pockets and from his papers selected those needed for the impersonation. There were several letters, but these he pocketed, unread, along with Schroeder's other things.

"How long is he good for?" Pat asked.

"I don't really know," Imhof acknowledged. "You'll have to stay and watch him." He bound the Nazi securely and gagged him. Next, he stole down the hall to Schroeder's room to make sure the door was locked. When he returned it was nearly time to start for the field.

"Well, dear," he said grimly, "we've grabbed the wire and it's got us. Now it's flit or burn."

They clung together a moment, then he went downstairs, seized a moment when the lobby was clear to hang Schroeder's key on its hook and left.

Upstairs, Pat locked herself in with their victim to wait.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Specialized buying continued as the principal prop for today's stock market and assorted favorites added fractions to 2 points or more to their recent advance, a number touching peaks for the year or longer.

Dealings picked up at intervals and transfers for the two hours were around 300,000 shares. Gainers had the advantage near the close.

Oils, which benefitted Friday from the postponement by underwriters of a sale of 1,000,000 shares of Rockefeller Standard Oil holdings, were virtually at a standstill.

Bonds and commodities were moderately irregular.

Are you in a non-deferrable industry?

The War Manpower Commission has urged that all men not now engaged in essential industry transfer to war jobs. To build the planes—the ships—the materials of war—an army of men and women are desperately needed on America's home front.

HIGGINS Aircraft of New Orleans has opened PAID training classes in SHREVEPORT. Men and women will be paid while they learn—aircraft sheet metal work—aircraft riveting, aircraft machine shop work and aircraft final assembly.

When the short training course is finished trainees will be immediately placed in HIGGINS' New Orleans plants for in-plant training.

NIGHT CLASSES PROVE POPULAR

Total Of 162 Taking Studies At Northeast Junior College

Popularity of night classes offered at Northeast Junior college has grown steadily, according to requests for courses and a significant increase in enrollment. Total registration for work this fall reached 162 when the class in cost accounting was organized last week.

Through the general extension division of Louisiana State university, under the direction of Dr. Marion B. Smith, the local college has been able to give through night classes additional service to people in this area of the state. In addition to the desire to earn extra college hours, many persons have registered for work with a view toward preparing themselves for positions in government offices or defense work.

Taking top place in the list of subjects in demand are courses offered by the commerce department under the direction of J. T. Johnson. Registration figures for these classes totaling 117 include approximately 69 WACs and enlisted men stationed at Selman field. Commercial courses offered this semester include: beginning and advanced shorthand, taught by Miss Pauline Rawlings; two sections of beginning typing given by Mrs. Fannie Davis; two selections of beginning accounting offered by Mr. Johnson and Fred G. Thatcher, and cost accounting taught by Mr. Johnson.

Cost accounting, given for the first time by N. J. C., was offered without charge by the United States office of education. The plan was developed with the idea of training men and women to meet the need for first class accountants for government offices, war jobs or related industries. Among those taking the work are several who are employed in war service jobs, Mr. Johnson said.

Each class meets two hours twice a week for a period of 12 weeks with the exception of the cost accounting class which meets for 16 weeks. Enrollment for commercial courses is closed, he said.

Other courses provided by the general extension division are in fields whose growth has been stimulated by war. Conversational Spanish is taught by Miss Hazel Mitchell, instructor in Romance languages at the college, and a class in social welfare is being taught by Miss Ruth Elizabeth Beck, assistant professor of social welfare at Louisiana State university. Both classes have large enrollments.

OVERTON EXPLAINS SCHOOL AID VOTE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, said here that he voted to recommit the federal aid to education bill because an amendment adopted before the bill came up for final passage would have injected federal control over state public schools.

Recommitment of the proposal is tantamount to its defeat.

Overton explained that he had planned to vote for the bill, which would have appropriated $300,000,000 for education, because as it reached the senate floor it contained a proviso, which prohibited federal control of state schools.

The amendment adopted on the floor would prohibit discrimination in the administration of both federal and state funds on account of race, creed or color.

"The amendment would have injected federal control of state public schools in a manner most dissatisfactory and invidious to the south," Overton said.

GUYS IN 'FLAKHAPPY TENT' SAY THEY ARE NOT CRAZY

Fliers Who Have Been On Many Bombing Missions Keep Saying It

By Kenneth L. Dixon

AN ADVANCED NORTH AFRICAN AIR BASE, Oct. 12.—(AP)—(Delayed)—The guys who hang out in "flakhappy tent" aren't crazy. They keep telling themselves that all the time.

Take Captain Rudolph (Rudy) C. Koller, for instance. He's been on 46 bombing missions with these Flying Fortresses.

"Shucks," said Rudy, "it doesn't bother me a bit, see?"

His hands begin to quiver, his face contorts until he looks like Lon Chaney caught halfway between Mr. Hyde and the hunchback of Notre Dame. The others in "flakhappy tent" howl with laughter.

"Me either," said Captain John (Jack) F. Taylor, who has been on 43 missions himself. He gets up from his army cot, stumbles across the tent floor like a punchdrunk prize fighter, his eyes glassy.

"I'm gonna quit before it gets me, see," he mumbled.

Rudy is a group navigator, hails from 245 Farallones street, San Francisco. Only 22 years old, he is dubbed "the child who looks like a man," is married and has a baby daughter back home he's never seen. Taylor, another group navigator, is from 1941 East Galbreth road, Pasadena.

The outfit has the reputation of being the best pinpoint bombers in the business. Twice it has been cited for extraordinary work in slapping the target on the nose. Rudy and Jack are typical of the guys who ramrod the group.

They're also typical of how those who enter "flakhappy tent" must leave sanity behind. Visitors walk out talking to themselves.

The third permanent resident is Captain Philip A. Neal of 237 Fairview avenue, Fairfield, Conn., who tried to shoot the tent light out one night with his .45 because it was too cold to get out of bed and turn it out. The camp executive officer came roaring in for an explanation.

"It's all right, sir," said Neal airily, "I'm the group armament officer. I've got plenty of ammunition."

He is, too. That means he doesn't have to go on bombing missions, but he does just the same. He and First Lieutenant Walter E. Simmons, ex-tobacco auctioneer from North Carolina, explain that they've won the air medal between them. You get the air medal for five combat missions. Neal has been on two, Simmons three.

"I wear the medal in daytimes, Snuffy at night," Neal said. Simmons is "Snuffy." He hails from Tarboro, "where the warmth comes not from the sun but from human hearts, suh."

Snuffy visits the tent all the time. He is assistant group intelligence officer. In his spare time he recruits soldiers for the south "to finish the war between the states, suh, as soon as we settle this little business ovah heeh."

He plans to see to it that the northern soldiers are fed on spam and army "C" rations.

"Them damn Yankees will be so demoralized, suh, that the Confederates will be a shoo-in."

Major Donald H. Ainsworth, group operations officer, dropped into the tent. He lives at 5940 Vermont avenue, Detroit.

"Detroit . . . Detroit," says Rudy speculatively. "Oh, yes, that's the place where they have race riots, isn't it?"

Koller promptly tells about the time Taylor opened fire on an enemy fighter plane when slightly flustered.

"The only difficulty was," Rudy explained politely, "that we were at 20,000 feet and the Jerry was at 2,000, which is slightly more than somewhat out of range."

"Oh, well, I was counting on gravity to help out," said Taylor.

Once before a mission the chaplain, Captain Ira B. Allen of 505 North Lawley Street, Emmetsburg, Iowa, dropped in to cheer the boys up. He ignored their jeers, looked their uniforms over with a speculative eye.

"I understand it's going to be a tough one today," he said cheerfully, looking at Koller's trenchcoat. "Do you think this would fit me, Rudy—just in case, you know . . ."

"Sorry, captain," says Snuffy, "I've already tagged that one for mine. You can have Jack's."

Some nights Major Herman W. Gaddis, group surgeon from Corpus Christi, Texas, stops by for a pleasant word. They call him "Arab" because he's always swapping the Arabs out of something. One night, after a particularly rough raid over Palermo, he dropped in with his Arab stove to warm up the tent and cook some hot food for the boys.

"The only trouble was that his stove exploded and set the tent on fire," said Taylor. "So the place burned down and it was raining. Nice night."

Arguments go on day and night. They settle the fate of the post-war world, fight the Civil war over again, argue about religion, bicker over which one hugged the armor plate the closest on the last raid.

One night when the Nazis came over it was tough. Neal had hired Arabs to dig the slit trench outside. Then the other guys wouldn't kick in their share of the dough.

"So Neal sits on the side of the slit trench with his .45 in his hand and won't let us in until we pay," Jack and Rudy moaned bitterly. "War profiteer, that's what he is."

RATES LOWERED ON SOME INSURANCE

E. S. Girault, president of the Ouachita Fire Insurance exchange, announces that effective November, 1943, that there will be reductions on some classes of fire insurance throughout the state, as recently announced by the Louisiana insurance commission.

This state commission after investigating carefully in conjunction with underwriters and fire insurance agencies, found that through effective fire prevention work and other modern facilities, that losses have been reduced in the state preceptibly and that this being the case, it is possible to make a reduction in rates.

These reductions will be on dwellings only and will in some cases amount to approximately 20 per cent, it is stated.

WACS CALL FOR EXPERTS IN ART

Women With Engineering Experience Also Can Be Used

Women with art training or engineering experience are needed by the women's army corps to make military maps and take over drafting jobs essential to the winning of the war, Lieutenant Vivia Locke, local WAC recruiting officer, said here yesterday.

Cartography and drafting are behind-the-line jobs recently delegated by the army to the women's army corps, Lieutenant Locke declared, in order to release more men for combat duty at the front. WAC technicians have been tried out experimentally in drafting jobs of various kinds and have proved successful with the result that a call has been sent out from recruiting headquarters in Washington to sign up more women artists and engineers as soon as possible.

"Where fashion designer, poster artist, interior designer or architect, the army needs you," Lieutenant Locke said. "It may seem a far cry from designing dressing to making maps, but the fundamentals of drawing are the same everywhere and the same sort of ability is essential. Architects and interior designers are especially valuable in military work since they are trained in model making as well as drawing. Cartography includes relief maps and topographic models.

"Map making is a fascinating job, important in the planning of military maneuvers and highly confidental in nature. Women who are selected for this work will have the satisfaction of filling responsible assignments and doing work that is vital to victory."

Women also are needed, Lieutenant Locke declared, as electrical, mechanical and structural draftsmen to serve with the engineers and other divisions of the army. This work requires more engineering experience, but artists can learn after only a few weeks of special training.

"I hope that all women who have these special abilities will enroll in the WAC without delay," she said, "and help release more men for actual fighting at the front.

The recruiting office for the WAC in Monroe is located at 307 Postoffice building. Questions will be answered and applications for enlistment in the WAC received there.

REVIVAL SERVICES TO CLOSE TODAY

The revival services that have been in progress at Gordon Avenue Methodist church the past week will end with the two to be held today. Rev. W. B. Mundy, pastor of a church in Key West, Fla., has been the evangelist. He is a former college chum of the pastor of Gordon Avenue church, and is an eloquent and enthusiastic speaker. This is his first visit to Louisiana and it was only through chance that Rev. W. C. Mason, Gordon Avenue pastor, was able to secure his services.

There have been a number of additions to the church membership as direct result of the services now in progress. The public is specially invited to attend the final series of Rev. Mundy's services. He will speak at 11 a.m. today on "Feed My Sheep." At the 7:45 p.m. service today he will talk on "The Prodigal Son."

DUTCH AUTHOR IS KILLED BY 2 MEN

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—A. M. De Jong, well-known Dutch author, was fatally shot Monday by two men who entered his home posing as policemen, the Fleming radio station at Brussels, Belgium, said today in a broadcast reported by Aneta, the Netherlands news agency.

De Jong, 55, wrote several successful novels, and was formerly literary editor of the social Democratic newspaper, Het Volk. He was reported to be a member of the Nazi-sponsored Netherlands culture chamber.

SCHOLARSHIPS COVER ALL STATE SCHOOLS

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP)—The attorney general's office today announced an opinion that the two scholarships granted each senator and representative apply to all state-operated colleges and universities as well as to Louisiana State university.

As established in 1936, the department reported, the scholarships applied only to the state university, but they were extended to other schools under act 214 of 1942.

The opinion was in answer to a question from W. F. Owen, business manager of Southwestern Louisiana institute, Lafayette, who had noted that fee exemption certificates presented by students were addressed to "Louisiana State university."

Other opinions announced today included:

Increased services to military personnel and employes of defense industries, coupled with termination of the WPA statewide library project, constitute a "public emergency" making it proper for the Louisiana library commission to exceed personnel and other operating expenses under limitations of the criminal code.

A chairman or member of a board of supervisors need not resign to become a candidate for party nomination in a primary since primary elections are in the hands of a party committee.

City police and firemen of municipalities of more than 13,000 and less than 100,000 may not become a candidate for public office without forfeiting his office or position.

A police jury may not extend a hunting season beyond any dates set by the legislature.
